

Trailer Courts: Drain Or Asset? Novato Decides Soon

BY ELLEN BRY

Are trailer courts a refuge for second class citizens who are a drain on the community? Or are they the home of desirable residents who are here to stay?

The answers to the questions will be the basis for possible special trailer court zoning in Novato.

City planning commissioners have set their March 13 meeting at the date to begin discussions on proposed trailer zoning, as outlined in a report from the county planning staff.

Bill D. Dobbs, principal county planner, working under contract as adviser to the Novato Planning Commission, says in an eight-page report to the city that:

"The restrictive attitude on the part of the (present) ordinance toward trailer parks has possibly inadvertently contributed to the undesirable nature of the existing trailer parks in the county."

Consigning trailer parks to industrial or commercial zones with few exceptions has left them free to fester with other eyesores and has led to some fallacious arguments and thinking on the subject of trailer parks."

Dobbs went on to point out views from local and national sources on trailer courts, including:

1. Mobile home parks are here to stay as part of the urban scene.
2. The tendency to judge all mobile home parks by the worst of them has led to the imposition of restrictions that are likely to lower the general average of the parks still further.
3. Mobile home parks can be — and many are — well kept and highly desirable additions to the housing supply.
4. Mobile homes are used primarily for permanent housing, and play an important part in recent additions to the housing supply.
5. Every 10th new home in the U.S. is a trailer.

Dobbs' report continued to say that nearly all mobile homes are dependent on the community for utilities, that the average mobile home is moved only once in 27 months, that a good mobile home is far from substandard housing and that "as a general rule, the presence of mobile home dwellers raises, rather than lowers average income for an urban area."

Planners suggest a new zoning designation for Novato, coded as "R-4", for any area occupied by one or more trailers.

The zoning would also allow single and multi-family residential construction. It might allow hotel or "automobile court" (which might allow auto campers) if the R-4 district were next to a commercial or industrial area and such would not disrupt traffic.

It would provide that each park be of at least five acres and have a density of not more than 10 trailer spaces per acre. Each park would front on a public road.

Each park should have a "greenbelt" planting strip at least 10 feet wide around its boundaries and no trailer would be parked closer than 20 feet to the park boundary.

In addition, the city planning commission would have the power to add conditions under "architectural supervision" of plans, which would be required. The commission would be entrusted with setting up standards for trailer parks.

center of the Capitol steps. A replica of the stand was used for a reenactment of the inauguration today. The scaffold at the upper right was being used in construction of the capitol dome, which was completed several years later. (AP Wirephoto)

LINCOLN'S INAUGURAL

One Of America's Greatest Days

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Abraham Lincoln's first inaugural was reenacted on its hundredth anniversary today. Thousands heard poet Carl Sandburg echo Lincoln's promise that the nation, guided by the Constitution, "will endure forever."

Speaker Sam Rayburn and Chief Justice Earl Warren were among the participants at the anniversary ceremony on the Capitol steps. Thousands watched Lincoln take the oath.

This time it was an actor doing the ceremony.

Sandburg, the white haired poet and biographer who has, himself, become a part of the Lincoln legend, told the gathering that the course of civilization in the next 100 years can be read in "the strange and baffling eyes of youth."

In his rasping, measured voice Sandburg recalled the

LIGHT RAIN PELTS MARIN

A light rain dampened Marin County last night, and more drizzles are expected to continue this weekend, the weather man says.

San Rafael had .08 of an inch last night, and .10 of an inch was reported at the Mill Valley Treatment Plant. Figures from Chevy Chase in Larkspur show .11 of an inch. Novato reported only a trace.

New Riots Break Out At Folsom

FOLSOM (UPI) — White and Negro prisoners rioted at Folsom State Prison again today, causing officials to enforce racial segregation in the dining halls.

Warden Robert A. Heinze said there were no injuries in the more serious of today's clashes, which ended as one guard fired a warning shot and 20 others rushed into a melee on the floor of a dining hall.

Ten prisoners were injured in a disturbance last night.

Heinze attributed last night's fight to agitation by members of the Negro Muslim cult, but said that now "some of the other Negro boys are joining up and taking over."

Folsom, California's maximum security prison, has an inmate population of 3,000, of which some 25 per cent are Negroes.

Heinze said that the first of today's riots started in a mess hall when about 100 Negro prisoners attempted to eat in a dining section normally used by whites. He said that "somebody" threw a dining tray through a motion picture screen at one end of the hall.

"A goodly number of whites got up and left," he said, adding that 20 guards bulled through the outgoing prisoners to put down the fight. There were about 300 prisoners in the hall.

Rash Of Auto Collisions Puts Six In Hospital

A rash of auto collisions this morning sent six motorists to hospitals, six cars to repair shops and left the Novato Greyhound bus shelter in a flattened heap.

Most seriously hurt was Dwight D. Louton, 21, of 164 Sycamore Avenue, Mill Valley. He suffered head injuries and was in "poor condition" this morning at Marin General Hospital.

Louton and William Woods, 23, also of 164 Sycamore, were headed south on Highway 101 about 3:30 this morning when their car struck a light pole at Marin City entrance. Marin Ambulance of Larkspur took the two to the hospital.

HIT STATION

Woods was released from the hospital after treatment for chin and forehead lacerations.

Lindell W. Griffin, 16, 286 Union Street, San Rafael, was under observation in Novato hospital this morning after the car he was driving hit the bus waiting station at Grant Avenue and Highway 101 in Novato at 2:05 a.m. today.

Highway Patrolmen reported the car was northbound on 101 when Griffin apparently fell asleep. The car smashed into the wooden bus station and demolished the eight-by-ten foot building.

A collision of two vehicles at 2:15 a.m. at Gate 4 Road and Bridgeway in Sausalito sent two women to the hospital. One driver, Tashi Monroe, 45, of Gate 5, Marinship, suffered face and head cuts. She was treated at Marin General Hospital and transferred to Kaiser Foundation Hospitals in San Francisco.

NOT INJURED

The driver of the other car, Thelma McKinney, 35, of Marin City was uninjured. A passenger in the McKinney car, Ramona Judson, 32, of Marin City, was treated for whiplash injuries and released from Marin General.

Highway patrolmen found a car owned by Robert Butts, 23, of 43 Court Street, San Anselmo, resting against a concrete wall on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield, at 2:15 a.m. today.

U.N. Forces Driven From Congo Base

Congolese Take Town, Shell Canadians At Port

LEOPOLDVILLE (UPI) — Congolese troops drove United Nations forces out of the strategic naval base of Banana today and shelled a villa housing Canadian U.N. troops in the port of Matadi.

A U.N. spokesman said a radio transmitter in the Canadians' villa was knocked out by fire from the Congolese attackers.

The spokesman said the transmitter in the villa housing a five-man Canadian signal unit apparently had been struck by a 20 millimeter shell.

In the last message from the transmitter, the Canadians reported a Sudanese U.N. lieutenant protecting the Canadian villa had been seriously wounded.

The battle, raging all day in the Congo river delta town of Matadi, involved Sudanese and Canadian troops against the Congolese.

Sudanese troops of the U.N. Congo force were reported using mortars in street fighting against soldiers of the central Congo government. The fighting was reported to be an outgrowth of earlier battling between Sudanese troops and Congo forces at Banana, 225 miles west of Leopoldville.

Matadi is the Congo's Atlantic port on the Congo River about 80 miles upstream and east of Banana, which is located on the edge of the Congo Delta.

The fighting at Matadi broke out at noon shortly after the Sudanese were reported to have retreated from the Banana naval base after a night-long clash with Congolese.

A U.N. spokesman in Leopoldville said one Sudanese had been slightly wounded and one Congolese killed in the Banana skirmish that began yesterday afternoon.

India Offers Brigade To U.N. Congo Force

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — India has offered a 3,000-man brigade to help beef up the U.N. Congo command and restore order in the divided African nation.

The offer came as leaders of all the anti-Communist Congo factions were meeting on the island of Madagascar in the Indian Ocean to try to thresh out a peaceful settlement of the confused Congolese problem.

According to surveys by the Interior Department, federal and state governments own only 1,245 of the more than 11,000 miles of shoreline bordering the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans and the Gulf of Mexico. The department said an additional 194 areas with a total mileage of 1,593 would be suitable for public parks.

GREET NEWCOMER—Mr. and Mrs. John W. Parsons of 192 Belvedere Street, San Rafael, greet Farad G. Farr (right), of 78 Scenic Avenue, San Rafael. The Parsons are members of the Methodist Church of San Rafael. Farr, formerly a resident of

Evangelism Method Is Changing

The word evangelism means the promulgation of the teachings of the New Testament. Some two decades ago this declaring was done primarily by preaching, but today in a majority of Christian churches, preaching is considered only a minor part of evangelism.

Pastor Donald H. Baldwin of the Methodist Church of San Rafael explained some of the modern methods of evangelism as he outlined the work involved in the Methodist Church's national program of "Week of Witnessing" which begins tomorrow.

While early evangelism initiated by John Wesley in 1700s in England was largely revival meetings and altar calls with on the spot conversions, now evangelism centers around personal contact by church members first, then educating worship and preaching by a minister and participation in the church "life."

PURPOSE THE SAME

"The purpose of evangelism is still the same, explained Rev. Baldwin. "That is, fulfilling the responsibility in meeting and winning a person to the Church of Jesus Christ."

This modern approach is used and will be concentrated on this week by Methodists in the San Rafael church under the leadership of the Commission of Membership and Evangelism, whose chairman is Wesley P. Howland of 63 Knight Drive, San Rafael.

Although many members are continually involved in some phase of evangelism it is usually the preoccupation of the commission to "bring inactive or indifferent members into the total life of the church," said the pastor.

IT IS IMPORTANT

"I believe evangelism is important because the church comes more nearly to being the symbol of the wholesome community of which Jesus Christ spoke, having the ideal answer to people's domestic and personal problems than any other institution. A religious attitude makes for a whole person, and a well person," declared Rev. Baldwin.

Novato Baptists Will Build New Church In 1962

The First Baptist Church in Novato expects to begin construction on a new church building in about a year.

The present church at 1017 Third Street is now "inadequate" for the congregation's growth, announced Peter Skjereth, chairman of the church planning and survey committee.

The congregation plans to sell its present building, which Skjereth says could be converted into a seven-unit apartment house. The building was reconstructed into units 15 years ago.

The new church will be on the corner of Yukon Way and South Novato Boulevard. The first section to be built will consist of a chapel, seating 250 to 300 persons, and up to 30 classrooms.

An auditorium, seating 400 to 500 persons, will be added three to five years later, Skjereth said. The first portion is expected to cost about $80,000; the total building will cost between $150,000 and $200,000. An architect has not yet been selected.

The pastor of the Novato congregation is Rev. Will Edd Langford.

Church Affairs Are Delegated To New Lay Commissions

Using as a precedent the events described in the sixth chapter of the Book of Acts, Westminster Presbyterian Church of Richardson Bay has delegated management of its affairs to three lay "commissions."

The plan was proposed by Pastor George F. Walker Jr., and approved by the congregation.

One commission will deal with Christian faith, life and worship; another with Christian proselytizing and the third with Christian stewardship. Although made up essentially with the church's elders, the commissions will be enlarged to include other laymen as well.

According to Rev. Walker, in other Presbyterian churches which have adopted the commission plan, laymen have become more deeply involved in their church programs and ministers have been freed from administrative chores.

Christian Science Lecture Scheduled

"Christian Science: Its Answer to Man's Need in the Atomic Age" will be the subject of a talk Thursday in Novato.

Mrs. Mary Wellington Gale of San Francisco will speak at 8 p.m. in the Novato Community Methodist Church, 1413 South Novato Boulevard, under the sponsorship of the Christian Science Society of Novato.

Mrs. Gale has lectured throughout the United States, Canada and Europe. She was in the advertising business before becoming a lecturer on Christian Science.

Council Expects To Hire Plan Aide Monday

The San Rafael City Council is expected to hire a planning consultant at its regular meeting 8 o'clock Monday night in the city hall to help draft a general plan for the city.

William Spangle of Menlo Park is the prime candidate for the job. He was recommended by both the planning commission and San Francisco engineer Daniel Coleman.

The city was given until March 23 to hire a planning consultant or lose $16,000 of federal urban planning funds to be allocated through the state. Coleman will make a streets and highways study and the consultant will prepare proposals for parks, recreation and zoning.

Plans and specifications for the estimated $12,700 reconstruction of Cijos Street from Third to Fourth Streets will be considered by the councilmen. The project, which would take about one month to complete, includes installing new curbs, gutters and sewers and a new black-top covering.

Bids will be opened on demolition of the caretaker's house in Grestle Park, which has been vacant for six months. Cost is estimated at $3,000.

The council will also consider entering an agreement with Municipal Data Processing Inc. of Los Angeles for handling the processing of the 253 Marin Bay Assessment District bonds for 15 years at a cost of approximately $1,800.

Public hearing dates will be set for rezoning the 30-acre Cypress Point annexation from unclassified to single-family residential with a 7,500 square foot minimum lot size and for amending the zoning ordinance to give the planning commission architectural control over all buildings except single family and duplexes.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Joblessness Climbs

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Unemployment apparently climbed above 5,500,000 in February, government economists said today.

They based their prediction on the report that a record number of workers—3,422,000—drew unemployment benefits in the week ending Feb. 18. The total of persons receiving jobless benefits rose 7 per cent from January to February.

Mine Blast Probe

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP)—Experts explored the depths of the Viking Coal Mine today, seeking to pin down the cause of an explosion that wiped out a crew of 22 men in a flash.

Miners had said they were convinced that a "green devil" gas fire ignited highly explosive coal dust Thursday night at the 265-foot level of the mine eight miles northwest of here.

A U.S. Bureau of Mines notice said the mine was closed because of "imminent danger of recurrence of mine explosion from gas and/or dust."

Snow Spreads

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL
A late winter snowstorm brought more than a half-foot of wet snow to the dust-dry central and northern plains today.

Snow blanketed a wide area from Wyoming and Colorado north to Canada and east to Northern Michigan.

'Cats' All The Same

NEW YORK (AP)—Louis (Satchmo) Armstrong, back home after six months abroad, today summed up his triumphal concert tour of Europe and Africa:

"Listen, man. Cats are the same everywhere—all over the world. They all talk the same language. They all dig me and my horn."

Anti-Sub Move

HOLY LOCH, Scotland (AP)—Scores of angry demonstrators against nuclear weapons surrounded six American sailors from the submarine tender Proteus on a Scottish pier today and forced them to take refuge in an office building.

The incident took place on the pier at nearby Dunoon as about 1,000 demonstrators assembled with posters and banners to march to the floating missile submarine base at Holy Loch.

The six sailors were waiting for a ferry to carry them across the Firth of Clyde toward the bright lights of Glasgow.

Joseph Grundy Dies

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP)—Joseph R. Grundy, 98, one-time Republican senator from Pennsylvania who gave his name to a conservative brand of politics that was known as "Grundism," died yesterday in the Bahamas where he was visiting.

Grundy was nationally known as a lobbyist, head of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Assn. and a behind-the-scenes political power who espoused a high tariff and low taxes on industry.

He served a short term in the Senate in the late 1920s.

Life Imprisonment

OTTAWA, Ill. (AP)—Chester Weger, accused of murdering the wives of three Chicago business executives in a state park, was convicted yesterday, his 22nd birthday. The jury set the penalty at life imprisonment.

Liz Has Pneumonia

LONDON (AP)—Movie actress Elizabeth Taylor came down with pneumonia today and her doctor described her condition as serious.

The film star, 29, was placed in an oxygen tent in her suite at a downtown luxury hotel.

Mark Revalued

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—The West German mark was revalued today in the strongest move yet to ease the pressure on the U.S. dollar.

Effective immediately the dollar will buy only 4 marks instead of 4 marks and 20 pfennigs. All other foreign currencies were adjusted accordingly.

The measure, disclosed by the Deutsche Bank in Frankfurt, was confirmed by the West German economics ministry. Details were expected to be released at a Bonn news conference tomorrow.

The move was preceded by a flurry of stock exchange speculation and a rapid weakening of the dollar in the German market. It came after repeated denials by both the Bonn government and the Deutsche Bank of any revaluation plans.

Ex-Seaman Skips Bail In Dope Case

An ex-seaman, accused of selling narcotics from his home on the Greenbrae Boardwalk, skipped a $2,625 bail posted by a bail bondsman and failed to appear in court yesterday afternoon.

Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Municipal Court issued a warrant of arrest for Jack Edward Devaney, 27, of 62 Greenbrae Boardwalk. The judge ordered the previous bail forfeited, and set the new bail at $3,500.

Devaney is accused of possessing and selling narcotics, including marijuana and heroin. He was nabbed asleep at his home in a Wednesday noon raid by Sheriff's Inspector Richard J. Argento and four federal agents.

Two other men, arrested on similar charges, are Ronald William Mattos, 23, a produce company truck driver; and Leo John Galli, 21, a nurseryman.

Mattos, of 315 Prospect Drive, San Rafael, is accused of narcotics possession and sale. He is free on $2,625 bail. Galli, who gave his address as 151- Alder Street, San Anselmo, is charged with narcotics possession and is free on $1,050 bail.

A preliminary hearing on the case is set for 9:30 a.m. March 17 in Marin Municipal Court.

Board Gets Zaro Petition On Monday

Decision on George Leo Zaro's petition of last week asking permission to start dredging of the Sausalito Channel in Richardson Bay is scheduled as first item of business at 2 p.m. Monday before the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

On the agenda list of communications to be taken up that afternoon are two letters, possibly taking divergent views. The Marin County Harbor Committee has written to report a resolution passed Thursday night at an emergency meeting, when it urged the board to continue efforts to qualify for a $300,000 before a March 20 deadline. This means support of the Zaro proposal which is one of cooperation to help Mill Valley out of its tight fix.

But the county Parks and Recreation Commission has also written to urge the supervisors to support the Richardson Bay Master Plan. Zaro has been considered in conflict with this plan and his scheme to help Mill Valley—which can't proceed till work starts on the county-jurisdiction Sausalito Channel—has been called clearly likely to conflict because of fill disposal.

Chairman William D. Fusselman, reported recovering from his recent influenza bout, is expected to preside again Monday but it will be a four-member board because Supervisor J. Walter Blair is not yet considered able to return to duty after an operation.

Tuesday's meeting, to start at 1 p.m., is expected to dispose of at least two continued matters. Roger Heiser was last week promised prompt action to let him start work on an apartment building on the Waldo slope near Sausalito. Decision has also been promised on the long-argued "spread" of assessment district payment for Ranch Road, Tara Hill, on Tiburon peninsula.

Church Schedules Meeting To Discuss Therapy Program

A program of psychological tests and group prayer therapy conducted by the First Congregational Church will be discussed at 7 p.m. tomorrow in the new chapel of the church, Merrydale and North San Pedro Roads.

Dr. George Branam, chairman of the testing program, will conduct the meeting, which is open to the public.

The tests are prepared and analyzed by Dr. William Park, professor at Redlands University and author of "Prayer Can Change Your Life."

Results of the individual tests are voluntarily shared by the participants in small discussion groups. Rev. Paul C. R. Peterson, pastor, reported more than 40 members of the congregation and others participated in the program more than a year ago with "amazing results."

Ex-College Student Leader Honored

Gary Antolini of 35 San Anselmo Avenue, San Anselmo, president of the student body at College of Marin last year, has received two honors at San Francisco State College where he is a junior.

Antolini won first place in an inter-collegiate debate at the College of San Mateo on Feb. 24. He was elected president of his dormitory floor at the college by the other students on Feb. 7.

CREDIT CARDS MAKE $1,000 BILLS RARE

SANTA MONICA (UPI)—The credit card has killed the $1,000 bill, according to Elizabeth Smith, treasurer of the United States.

Mrs. Smith, of Kent Woodlands, also a Democratic National Committeewoman for California, yesterday told a Democratic legislative campaign kickoff lunch that the treasury hasn't printed a $1,000 bill since 1945. In fact nothing larger than $100s has been printed.

"We just don't seem to need them anymore," said the lady treasurer. "Money was originally invented as a convenience—and the cards have just about taken over that function."

Roger Kent Says He'll Step Out Of Politics Soon

(See also story, page 1)
I-J Special Report

SANTA MONICA — Roger Kent of Kent Woodlands told the opening session of the California Democratic Council yesterday that he intends to step out of politics after his current term as chairman of the state central committee.

"After August 1962 (when his term ends)," he said, "it is my intention to be only a consultant."

Asking for party unity, he said, "Our important successes have been the result of joint action. At the same time, he said, we "cannot ignore the charges that the state central committee and the legislators intend to take over the CDC and destroy it."

He defended the joint office arrangement of the central committee and the CDC in San Francisco. He described it as "just Democrats working together."

"We ask you one simple question," he said, "do you want Nixon to be governor of California?" There was a chorus of "no" from the delegates. "That would be a tragedy, not only to us, but to the people who look to us to accomplish the things the Democratic Party stands for. I pledge to work with and support the officers you elect."

MRS. SMITH PLANS TO KEEP POSITION

Will Stay In Demo Committee Post During Service As U.S. Treasurer

I-J Special Report

SANTA MONICA — Mrs. Elizabeth R. Smith of Kent Woodlands, treasurer of the United States, told the Independent-Journal that she has decided to retain her position as Democratic National Committee woman from California.

Possibility of her resignation has been a matter of political conjecture since her appointment to Washington.

Mrs. Smith, attending the California Democratic Council convention here, has found she "has many more duties" in the post in Washington than she had while in California. "I have been able to be helpful to many Californians," she said.

"When I first went to Washington," she continued, "I asked for a legal opinion as to whether there is a conflict of interest between a federal position and a state office. I have not had an official answer to that question."

"However, I find that Mrs. Georgia Neese Clarke was a national committee woman of Kansas before and during her service as treasurer of the United States under President Truman, and she still is a national committee woman."

"I do not intend to resign my duties as California national committee woman."

Mill Valley Attorney Demo Post Candidate

I-J Special Report

SANTA MONICA — Gerald Hill, Mill Valley attorney, was nominated last night for regional vice president of the California Democratic Council representing Democratic clubs in the first, second and third congressional districts (practically all of northern California except the East Bay and San Francisco south).

His opponent is H. William Brown, Sacramento real estate appraiser for the state who has been active in the CDC for the past five years. The winner will succeed Mrs. Nancy Strawbridge of Belvedere.

Hill, nominated by Albert Gately, president of the Ross Valley Democratic Club, is an eight-year member of the organization and is a member of the CDC executive committee, the governing body, and the director from the first congressional district.

Brown is a director for the third congressional district and is president of the Sacramento-Yolo Democratic Club.

Brown is banking his campaign on the fact he lives in Sacramento where the elected state officers and the legislators are. Thus, he says, he can be of the most help to the CDC.

Hill declared he plans to serve the whole region, and that his political activities have made him familiar with much of it.

Ballet Book Published By Novatan

A Novato ballet artist—once a member of the Anna Pavlova company—has written a new textbook on "Ballet and Character."

The book, by Aron Tomaroff of 649 Plum Street, was published last week. It is described as a "useful teacher's manual and reference book, endorsed by the foremost teachers of ballet."

The volume contains 84 removable dance cards on a ring binder, describing more than 400 variations of ballet and character steps and turns, showing the ways each can be executed.

Tomaroff has conducted ballet schools in New York, Dallas and South America. He danced at New York theaters, and was a solo dancer at the New York Hippodrome. He also performed at the Radio City.

He has been on the faculty of many teachers' conventions and has written other books on the dance.

Tips on Purchase and Home Care of Your Wardrobe

By Bert Brown, Marin Cleaners of San Rafael, Bel Aire, & Fairfax, GL 4-4792

Stains on clothing can put you on the spot—so take care

Could you imagine yourself applying butter, vinegar (which contains acid), or milk and lemon juice to your favorite suit or dress? Widely publicized recipes have suggested just this.

But, if you do, you will be putting yourself on the spot, warns the National Institute of Drycleaning.

Some of these remedies may work if applied to launderable items, says Gordon Leonhardt, spotting and wetcleaning instructor at the Institute. "The item must be launderable in order to wash out the stain that has been created by the agent called for in the home remedy. For instance, milk can actually create a stain as difficult to remove as the original stain that existed prior to the application of milk. But if milk is used on a fabric such as a dyed cotton it can simply be washed out."

"But when you are thinking of removing a stain from an item that you value or clothing that you ordinarily send to the dry-cleaner," says Leonhardt, "don't take a chance." Spots and stains caused by the likes of blood, tar or ink, to name but a few, deserve the care and attention of a trained professional.

SHARON GHILOTTI ENGAGED TO HAROLD G. BAUER JR.

Mr. and Mrs. William Ghilotti of San Anselmo are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Sharon Lynn, to Harold G. Bauer Jr.

The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold G. Bauer of Del Mar.

The bride-elect was graduated from Dominican High School and attended Munson's Secretarial College in San Francisco. She is the sister of Bob and Chris Ghilotti of San Anselmo. Mrs. James Ghilotti of San Rafael and Mrs. Fay Hoek of Waukegan, Ill., are her grandmothers.

The future benedict was graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School and served with the U.S. Army. He will graduate from College of Marin this year and then plans to go into business with his father in Del Mar. He will also continue his education at San Diego State College. His sister, Beverly Bauer, attends San Diego State College.

Plans are being made for a June wedding.

Grape Booth Guild Has Lunch Meeting Primrose Tea In Inverness On March 16

The Grape Booth Guild of Sunny Hills gave a surprise luncheon at the Ondine recently in honor of the outgoing president, Mrs. George Andrews.

Plans were discussed for the Cinco de Maya fund raising dance to be held on Saturday, May 6. Mrs. Robert Gomez of Mill Valley is chairman. New officers for the group were elected at the previous meeting and many were present to greet Mrs. Andrews. On the new staff are Mesdames Stanley Carlsen, president; Harvey Lufi, vice president; Robert Foehr, secretary; David Gibbs, corresponding secretary; Donald Miley, treasurer and Stanley Behrens, Grape Booth chairman.

The annual Primrose Tea of the Inverness Garden Club, always an event which attracts many visitors to the picturesque Tomales Bay community, will be held on Thursday, March 16, at Frick Hall on the grounds of St. Columba's Church in Inverness from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

This year the sale, held in conjunction with the tea, will be concentrated on three major items, many beautiful primroses, of course, home made breads and the red cook books with favorite recipes of the garden club members.

As the parking space is limited at Frick Hall, a shuttle bus will carry visitors from the parking area at the Inverness Yacht Club or from the highway near the church.

Mrs. Richard Grant, club president, has appointed Mrs. Frank Myer, chairman of the tea, and Mrs. D. A. Fry, co-chairman.

Mrs. Richard Gimple, who studied flower arranging in Japan, is in charge of decorations. Mrs. William Trayer who is in charge of primrose plant sales and has ordered a sparkling assortment for the sale. Mrs. R. L. Griffith is chairman of the sale of home-made breads and the cook books. Mrs. Montague Barton is in charge of the tea table. The Garden Club is proud of its many new members and has honored them by asking them to pour tea.

Others heading committees are Mrs. B. S. Diehl, Mrs. Frank G. Short and Mrs. John Camm. The tea is open to the public.

Frick Hall is named for the previous owner and builder of the country mansion which became St. Columba's Church in 1951. Robert N. Frick, tradition has it, designed the huge living room for the marriage of his three daughters. Since the church was purchased ten years ago by the Rt. Rev. Karl Morgan Block and the drawing room changed to a church under the direction of the Rev. Charles E. Shrewsbury, then vicar, the tradition has been carried on and many young people have exchanged nuptial vows at St. Columba's.

Some of the outstanding changes are a wrought-iron altar rail and gate, designed by Leonard Wood and executed by local craftsman Chester Noran, a statue in a niche by the altar of St. Columba created by Mrs. Eric Montizambert and a painting over the altar by Jaci C. Bibily, a copy of the Sandro Botticelli Madonna.

MARIN'S SOCIAL WHIRL

Many Guests Invited To Gardiners' Party

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

Invitations have been issued by the Samuel Gardiners to 275 of their friends for a cocktail party at the Meadow Club on March 18. The Gardiners generally host a big party during the Christmas holidays but as so many people were away (many of the men hunting) they deferred it until now and at her home in Fairhills, Mrs. Gardiner is entertaining at a luncheon on March 14.

TWO FAMOUS Music Personalities arranged their trips to the Bay Area to coincide, but primary purpose of the visit of Maestro Meyer Davis and his wife, was to see their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Forood of Mill Valley, and their three little daughters. Mrs. Davis was here for two weeks and her husband for one. In San Francisco were Maestro Pierre Monteux for the famed conductor's appearance with the symphony, and his wife, sister of Mrs. Davis.

Maestro Davis, who has about a hundred orchestras, has conducted for many grand balls and debuts, including the lavish one in Rome two years ago and the fabulous Ford party. He has three orchestras on a number of the big ocean liners and in July will go to Rio de Janeiro for a magnificent debut event.

Maestro and Mrs. Davis have a home in New York City and spend the summers at their place at Sorrento in Maine. Mrs. Forood and the girls, Pamela, 6, Lile, 4, and Pari, 2, last two names are Persian as their father's nationality is Persian (Iranian), will go again this summer to Sorrento.

Dr. Guttman is with the Cancer Research Department of University of California Medical Center in Berkeley. Both he and his wife were active in civic and philanthropic work in Sacramento where they lived for 25 years before moving here. They have one son, Paul Gullman Jr. who is a sophomore at University of California at Berkeley.

A SURPRISE DINNER was given Saturday night at the Belverton Gardens home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Henson. Honored guests at the no host event were Mr. and Mrs. Marius Larsen of San Anselmo who will sail for Europe in mid-April on the Scandinavian ship Stavangersjord.

LEAVING WINTER behind, Mrs. Grace Graham sailed from Corpus Christi, Texas, aboard the Aransas to Trinidad, staying at Port of Spain for a few days, then on to Tobago, where Swiss Family Robinson was filmed, for two weeks at Arnos Vale. Then she went to Barbados for a week at the Coral Reef Club. From there Mrs. Graham will fly to New York for several days before returning to her home in Kentfield.

THEATER PARTIES in the making. Prior to the 8:30 curtain call for the first night's performance of "Bus Stop" at The Barn, Marin Art and Garden Center on Thursday, March 9, Mr. and Mrs. Cole Jackman (Betty is president of the Auxiliary to the Marin Humane Society which benefits from the proceeds of the premiere of the Ross Valley Player's comedy "Bus Stop") will entertain a group of eight with cocktails and buffet supper at their San Anselmo home.

Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Herspring and a party of four will attend the opening night champagne gala at The Barn. They (she is member of Auxiliary of sponsoring group of the benefit affair) are leaving March 23 via Japanese Airline jet for a trip to the Orient, first stop Hong-kong for two weeks and then on to Tokyo for a month's tour of Japan.

The George Coburns (Lilian will be one of the Auxiliary champagne-hostesses at the preview performance) are organizing a no-host after theater party for a group at the Blue Rock in Larkspur.

Another couple with travel plans are the E. N. Wilsons (she is a new member of Auxiliary and will also have hostess duties on March 9 at the benefit) will "throw their golf bags into the car" and leisurely drive through the South West and Northern Mexico with a stop-over in San Diego for a visit with their daughter and her husband and two grandchildren.

A two weeks' vacation in Hawaii is planned by the LeRoy Pages. They intend to fly to the islands in April.

BACK TO EDINBURGH, Scotland, where she was born, Mrs. Harvey (Harry) Surratt of Fairfax and her husband, Capt. Surratt will be heading soon.

They'll be in the beautiful old city for the wedding of Mrs. Surratt's eldest grandniece, Capt. Surratt is now retired so he and his wife are planning on an extended holiday—several months or so. They are flying first to Paris and then to London and go from there to Edinburgh. After that—the Surratts are not certain of their plans. They may travel in Spain. They'll leave here early in May.

Several parties are planned for the popular Mrs. Surratt. Mrs. Frederic Leo, who gives fabulous luncheons at Easter and Christmastime, is combining this year's Easter fete on March 28 with a farewell party for the Fairfax resident. Mrs. Leo's guests always await her parties eagerly as she has such an artistic flair. She makes beautiful ceramics and serves luncheon on dishes she has made to carry out the theme of the day. Marking the places are place cards she makes. She keeps her plans a secret until the guests arrive. This year she will entertain, in addition to Mrs. Surratt, Mesdames Jordan L. Martinelli, P. S. Harless, Richard Tissot, Floyd Spence, Sam Heiman, Sam Gardiner, also Mrs. William Blake of San Francisco, Mrs. William Roberts of Woodside and two former Marinites, Earl Bethards and Harold Keeler of Santa Rosa.

Luncheons will be given for Mrs. Surratt on March 21 by Mrs. Floyd Spence, April 14 by Mrs. A. L. Stewart and on April 18 by Mrs. A. H. Dewees.

A MOVE BACK to San Francisco is planned by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Parish III, who in September will move into the house formerly owned by the Rex Stevensons they have bought on Washington Street in San Francisco. They have a son, who is not yet two. The Parishs will sell their Kent Woodlands home.

They are receiving interesting news these days from Harry's mother, Mrs. Harry Parish II, noted New York City decorator, who is in Washington D.C. to redecorate the White House quarters of President and Mrs. Kennedy.

eral, placed her name before the convention.

Voting will take place tomorrow morning as one of the closing activities of the three-day convention.

Williams called her an "unselfish, dedicated worker, not seeking for self but for party, state and country."

He detailed her "brilliant record" which he said "displays a rare fusion of liberal conviction and persistent advocacy."

Mrs. Elizabeth B. Smith of Kent Woodlands, Treasurer of the United States, seconded the nomination "not only because of her known qualities of administration and issue orientation, but because she has the time and talent to do the job."

A seconding speech also was given by Sen. Hugo Fisher of San Diego.

Paul Ziffren, ousted as democratic national committeeman by Gov. Brown's forces last year, supported Tom B. Carvey of Palos Verdes Estates. Mrs. Swadesh professed to have the backing of Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk, who took over Ziffren's high party post.

John M. Bailey, Democratic national chairman, joined Brown in telling delegates they must work harder for Democratic candidates in 1962 and 1964.

"It seems to me," he said, "that the record shows we have done a fine job of registration and that we have fallen down badly in getting registered Democrats to vote and to vote for our candidates."

"It was a great day in American history of which we might say it was sunset and dawn, moonrise and noon sun, dry leaves in an autumn wind, and springtime blossoms, dying time and birthing hour," the poet said.

"He would have wanted us of the latest generation to remember how he stood amid the terrific toils and turmoils he was under compulsion to face," said Sandburg.

Judgeship Bill Passed By Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate has passed a bill to create 73 new federal judgeships after rejecting a Republican motion to defer action for two weeks.

The measure, which now goes to the House, was passed by voice vote. President Kennedy put new judgeship legislation on a list of 16 bills he requested be given priority by Congress. He recommended the creation of 59 additional judges, however, instead of the 73 provided for in the Senate bill.

Terra Linda League Tells Annex Views

The Terra Linda Taxpayer's League adopted a five-point policy statement last night in its campaign to urge "yes" votes at Tuesday annexation election.

League members met at the home of Anton T. Lonich, chairman. Lonich said the following points are included in the policy statement:

1. The two dedicated park sites are definitely not affected by the annexation election. Whether the people in Terra Linda wish to annex or not, these two park sites must be used as deeded (for everyone's use in Terra Linda) or revert to original owners.

2. The newly formed recreation district will remain in existence whether Terra Linda annexes to San Rafael or not.

3. Taxes will definitely be reduced after annexation.

4. The Terra Linda Recreation District Board is not pressed by the "scare campaign" of the opponents to annexation. The district has gone ahead with recreation plans. Board members should be commended for not indulging in petty politics.

Marin Belts Tomales In Baseball Practice

Marin Catholic Wildcats breezed to a 10-0 victory over Tomales High yesterday in one of three practice games by Marin Athletic League schools.

Elsewhere, Redwood's Giants lost 10-2 to the Santa Rosa Panthers and Tamalpais Indians lost a tough 6-5 count to St. Mary's of Berkeley.

Coach Harry Moore's Wildcats drew nine walks to help pile up runs. Mike Quinn's three-run double was the big Marin hit.

Russ Defeats Thomas Again; Record Jump

NEW YORK (AP)—After losing to Valery Brumel three times in a row—John Thomas denied today that the Soviet whiz-kid held a whammy on him.

"No, I don't think he has a jinx on me," Thomas said. "No one is unbeatable. I'll just keep on trying."

Brumel soared 7 feet, 3 1/2 inches last night in the Knights of Columbus Games in Madison Square Garden to shatter the indoor bar track record by half an inch.

While Brumel was going 7-3 1/2, the best Thomas could do before a choked crowd of 14,255 was 6-10—the first time in two years he has failed to clear 7 feet in a major meet.

Thomas and Brumel probably will meet again in the Soviet championships in Moscow on July 1-2, and again in the U.S.-Soviet dual meet in Moscow July 15-16.

Golf Trophy Won By Mrs. Richardson

Mrs. Hugh Richardson had a low net card of 94-32—62 yesterday to win the Mill Valley Women's Golf Club's monthly "Trophy Day" golf tournament.

Class A — Mrs. Lynn Sumpter, 86-19-67; Mrs. George Prydz, 81-13-68.

Class B — Mrs. Volmar Thoney, 85-24-71; Mrs. Oscar Lebeck, 94-23-71; Mrs. Fred Fellows, 85-23-72.

Class C — Mrs. W. A. Van Buskirk, 108-35-73; Mrs. Joseph Wittenmeier, 108-34-74.

Scout For Senators

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Charlie Silveira, former catcher who spent much of his eight seasons with the New York Yankees watching Yogi Berra play, was signed as a scout today by the Washington Senators.

Silveira will scout the Northern Pacific Coast area.

Marin Wins Cage Tournament Playoff

College of Marin basketball team not only proved last night against Shasta Junior College that the Tars have no peers in the Golden Valley Conference, but that they deserve to, and will, represent the conference for the fifth straight year at the California State Junior College Tournament in Santa Maria next week.

The Tars, with two big guns belching fire by the name of Ron Blum and Dale Aman, struck down Shasta, now technical partners in conference rule, with a 76-to-66 count blow.

Blum and Aman provided 42 points for Marin. The players split the gold evenly.

The playoff game for the tournament bid was played at neutral American River J.C. in Sacramento.

At the outset it wasn't all so glorious. For 12 and one-half minutes the Tars couldn't make what experts feel are an important part of the game—field goals. The clubs were stalemated at 13-13 with the Tars hanging on for life by pure charity.

Shasta was pushing hard. It set up a hounding, full-court press, modified only in what was at the same time preoccupied with Marin's big scorer, Lynn Livie who was held all evening to four field goals, yet managed to scrounge 16 digits.

Shasta thought game precedent was set. But it did not know about Marin Coach Cal Riemke's "evil eye" that wins games and championships.

At the dark 12-and-one-half-minute mark Blum must have gotten the Riemke "look." Blum just plain robbed the ball from an astounded Shasta man, went in to score, and the ice melted away.

For the next seven and one-half minutes Shasta was deluged and sacked of 25 points by the warring Tars. Blum himself stacked up 10 straight marks. At the mid-buzzer it was Marin 36 to 27. The second round saw only Shasta in vain attempts to close gaps which at times reached a gapping 20 points in Marin's favor.

Tar Johnny Blomquist contributed to the victory in his continued and skillful defensive harassment of the enemy and with his smooth offensive ball handling. Aman, only eligible since last month, hit 11 for 11 charities and five for eight goals.

The Tars were in with 38 per cent of their shots. They tried 56 times and the leather went through 21 times. Shasta led from the floor with 40 per cent of its attempts counting.

But Marin made the jack pot bells ring by hitting 79 per cent of its free throws (34 for 43). Shasta lingered behind Marin with a healthy 59 per cent on the charity chart.

Today Riemke was pleased with his victory and a chance for a state title, but not cocky in any respect.

"We of course are going into the contest as underdogs. But if these boys display the spirit they have this season we may knock off anybody," said Riemke.

The Marin coach said the Tars had drawn a tough opponent if Bakersfield Junior College wins its conference. The contest at Santa Maria starts Thursday and ends Saturday. Riemke did not yet know any precise schedule or other opponents for next week's action.

PHOENIX — As if Candlestick Park's gales weren't bad enough, the San Francisco Giants now are being harassed by Arizona dust storms.

A swirling cloud of dust forced Manager Alvin Dark to blow the whistle on yesterday's workout after only an hour of activity and he hoped today that the team could resume a normal schedule.

However, the freshman pilot refused to be dismayed.

"It's just because of this contingency that we've worked the boys so hard since camp opened," Dark said. "They're in real fine shape so the loss of a couple of hours work won't hurt them a bit."

Don Blasingame, who found the Candlestick Park breezes a pain in the neck last season, literally had one yesterday after a sleepless night. But aside from the veteran second baseman's trouble and rookie pitcher Ray Fieldman's sore arm, the club was declared healthy by trainer Frank Bowman.

Dark said yesterday that pitching coach Larry Jansen had done a top job of getting the hurlers into condition.

"The group really has worked hard," the former Giant shortstop declared. "I think most of them are ready to go right now."

Meanwhile, the name of rookie outfielder Arlo Engel was kicked around in the San Francisco Giants' camp.

Engel is not an infielder—as listed—but an outfielder, and at 6-2 and 190 pounds, an outfielder with power and size.

The Giants would love to see Engel make good for a few reasons. For one, he can hit; for another he can really run. And for a third, he was snatched out from under the Dodgers.

Engel, who hails from Linwood, Duke Snider's hometown near Los Angeles, was plucked from the Dodger roster for $12,500 as a first-year draft pick.

Arlo belted the ball at a .350 clip in Arizona's winter Rookie League.

Last year in Florida, however, he hit only .260 in Class D ball at Orlando.

It may have been the Florida weather...

It is unlikely that Engel will make the parent club this time around, what with Willie Mays, the brothers Alou, Orlando Cepeda and jack-of-all-trades Harvey Kuenn set for duty in San Francisco's pastures.

But at only 19, Engel still has it all in front of him. The Giants worked out today and have Sunday off.

MEADOW CLUB GOLFER FIRES VALUABLE ACE

Only three members of the Meadow Club joined a new "Million Dollar Hole In One Club" two days ago, but one of them already cashed in on the membership.

He is Lee Cecotti of 5760 Paradise Drive, Corte Madera. Yesterday, playing in a foursome that included David L. Dorward, Bill McLellan and A. E. Mooney, Cecotti shot a hole-in-one on the Meadow Club's 150-yard fifth hole. He used a six iron.

Cecotti, a paving contractor, thus wins $150 in merchandise from the "Million Dollar" club.

BRONCOS SPOIL ST. MARY'S HOPES WITH 60-53 UPSET

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

St. Mary's and the University of San Francisco today were all but mathematically eliminated from the West Coast Athletic Conference basketball race. Loyola of Los Angeles, a game in front with a game left to play, appeared to have the title wrapped up with a ribbon around it.

St. Mary's tries to hang on tonight when the Gaels host San Jose State at Moraga.

The Gaels' dreams of a tie with Loyola were rudely jolted by Santa Clara's Broncos 60-53 last night in an egg-splattered contest at San Jose.

Loyola, meanwhile, ran its conference mark to 9-2 by dumping Pacific 76-59 at Los Angeles. USC's Dons moved into a second-place tie with the Gaels, each at 7-3, by turning back San Jose State 49-38.

Rounding out tonight's schedule is Pacific (0-6) at Pepperdine (2-8). Loyola is idle until Tuesday when it clashes with Pepperdine in the conference final for both teams.

If Loyola wins that one, it's all over, no matter what else happens. But should Pepperdine upset Loyola, then St. Mary's and USC have a chance for a tie, provided the Gaels and the Dons each win their remaining two games.

The Gaels-Broncos clash was held up until officials could persuade rooters to stop firing eggs at one another.

St. Mary's led most of the way but Santa Clara's Gene Shields' basket tied it at 53-53 and the Broncos put it on ice with a seven-point rip. Santa Clara's Ron McGee was high for the game with 19. Tom Meschery had 17 for St. Mary's.

Loyola got a scare from Pacific's winless Tigers, who led at the half, 35-30. Ed Bento, who led the winners with 27 points, ignited a second period surge that pulled it out for Loyola. Pacific's Ken Stanley took game honors with 31 points.

USF had it all its own way at San Jose, piling up a 10-point lead early and coasting home. John Galten had 19 points for USF. Joe Brown led San Jose with 14.

Size Of Ring Is Cause Of Feud; Fullmer Favored

By JACK CUDDY

LAS VEGAS (AP)—The Gene Fullmer-Sugar Ray Robinson fight for the NBA middleweight title will be staged tonight as scheduled—but in an 18-foot ring instead of a 16-foot one as a result of Robinson's threat to pull out of the bout unless the change was made.

The Convention Center 15-rounder will be nationally televised (ABC) at 7 p.m. (PST).

Sugar Ray, who during his 20-year ring career has floor-ed almost as many promoters as opponents by his withdrawals, announced last night he would pack his equipment and leave for New York today if the promoters insisted upon making him fight the bull-like Fullmer in a "telephone booth."

Robinson's ultimatum burst like an artillery shell in the press room at the Riviera Hotel and caused many quick conferences among co-promoters Norman Rothschild, Jack Doyle and Mel Greb, as well as among members of the Nevada State Commission.

16-FOOT MINIMUM

The commission rules permit the ring to measure anywhere from 16 feet to 24 feet. But the minimum 16-footer had been arranged for this fourth title fight between Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, and Robinson of New York.

Slender Ray insisted he had warned co-promoters in advance he would not fight in a 16-foot ring.

To Robinson, whose lingering explosiveness figures to be Fullmer's primary concern, the smaller ring didn't give him sufficient operating room. But for Fullmer it would have been an advantage, giving him an opportunity to exploit his bullish, crowding style.

AGE FACTOR

Fullmer's relative youth was another factor that established the West Jordan charger as an 8-5 favorite for the fourth meeting of the battlers. At 29, he's 11 years younger than Ray.

The bout stirred considerable interest here, particularly after the much disputed split decision when the two last met in Los Angeles in December. Doyle, Greb and Rothschild look for a $145,000 gate for the bout, as well as a crowd of 7,000 in the Convention Center.

Both men expected to scale a little under 160 pounds.

San Rafael Cadets Beat Petaluma '9'

Marv Parker's second inning single touched off a rally that started the San Rafael Military Academy baseball team to a 10-7 victory over St. Vincent's of Petaluma yesterday.

Cadet pitcher Rick Sperry struck out 11 batters in five innings to show mid-season form.

"SO WHY SHOULD I back down or be afraid to predict the Giants might take it all this year?" Dark asks.

I talked to a lot of veteran baseball men here and they all agree Alvin will get more out of the Giants, if they can escape serious injury, than anybody else.

As we see it, the Giants

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Position Taken By Miller On Redistricting Incredible

It would be putting it mildly to say we were disappointed in the answer our congressman, Clement W. Miller of Corte Madera, has given in response to our invitation to make his position known on the redistricting of the First Congressional District.

As you recall, the Independent-Journal carried several stories and an open letter to Congressman Miller on the prospect that Marin will be cut off from the First District in order to make the district "safe for Clem." Marin is the only Republican county in the seven-county First District.

In his answering letter, published on this page Thursday, Miller completely avoided the issues and questions raised by the situation. He pretended that the redistricting was of no interest to him and that he would have no say in what was happening.

He failed to answer such a direct question as, "Do you believe that the proper way to reapportion congressional districts is on the political basis of how it affects the congressman?"

He also pretended that he had no control over his supporters and that what they said and did was no concern of his.

All of this, of course, is so much malarky. Miller is vitally concerned with the redistricting of his constituency. He has been in direct communication with the chairman and members of the Assembly Committee charged with responsibility for reapportioning the state into "fair and equitable" congressional and assembly districts. He has been in direct contact with his supporters here concerning the matter and already has formed an opinion as to what should be done with the First Congressional District.

Knowing these facts there can be only one, unhappy conclusion. Miller wants his home county of Marin cut out of his district and he's afraid to say so.

It is unfortunate that we can't ask our congressman some questions and get straight answers with reasons for his position.

It is incredible that he wants us to think he isn't interested in the whole thing and will keep hands off.

Roll Call For Service

During March, the American Red Cross conducts its annual Roll Call. This is not a major fund campaign. Rather it is a membership effort directed toward people who have been active or interested in the Red Cross in their specific areas.

It should be successful in Marin County. Red Cross activity here has been on the increase in several fields, while holding up in all the others except—we're happy to say—disaster relief.

An important expansion has been in the field of youth activities. This is not providing more activities for youth, although the water safety program last year attracted 5,000 youngsters and more than half of them earned their certificates. Instead it provides an opportunity for youth to give service.

Bouquets And Brickbats

BOUQUETS to the Redwood Giants and the Marin Tars, both of which walked off with their own league basketball championships.

The Jr. Grey Ladies program in the hospitals is being expanded. A new program for college youths was started in addition to the Jr. Red Cross program.

The first aid training program has just about doubled a year ago. Home service activities have increased, the direct financial assistance to military families and veterans is about 20 per cent higher than last year.

So with nursing, Grey Ladies, motor service, production social welfare aides, and other volunteer activities, literally thousands of Marinites have been involved.

We're sure they, and you too if you are interested, will make the annual Roll Call successful.

A BOUQUET to John E. McSweeney, who has retired as postmaster of Mill Valley after 36 years of service not only to the federal government, but to his city and community as well.

DEVIL'S FAVORITE FOOD

Discouragement has been called the devil's most effective tool. Satan uses many implements to ensnare young and old alike. As someone said, he "entangles youth with beauty, the miser with gold, the ambitious with power, the learned with false doctrine."

It is true that the devil lures and captivates many through pride, lust, avarice, hate and similar forms of evil. But for those who resist all such wiles he reserves one special instrument which seldom fails. It is discouragement.

In countless insidious ways, Lucifer can subtly undermine the morale of a person who is capable of great good. With disarming persistence he can keep saying: "Why should you bother? Nobody else cares." Or again: "What can one little person like you do? Everything is against you."

With the Lord's help you can prove that you do count. By persevering through every temptation to be disheartened you can bring out the tremendous power hidden within you, honor God, shame the devil and make the world a better place for your being in it.

"And He said to them: I saw Satan falling like lightning from heaven."

(Luke 10:18)

FEDERAL SCHOOL AID

California Would Get Less Than Average

By Congressional Quarterly

WASHINGTON — If President Kennedy's education program goes through Congress without change, California would receive $193,461,363 from the federal government to aid its public elementary and secondary schools, and 16,135 scholarships, worth about $2,800 each, to help needy high school graduates go to college.

But Congress has a way of whittling down spending proposals coming from the Executive, and Capitol Hill approval of these two education programs is far from certain.

The funds for public school aid, which will be distributed over three years, would be sent to state education agencies, which would distribute them, as they see fit, for use in building schools or boosting teachers' salaries.

A LITTLE MORE than 10 per cent of the state's receipts must be set aside for the development of programs or to cover special educational needs, such as schools in slum areas, mentally retarded children, or exceptionally intelligent children.

The government would give each state at least $15 per child in average daily attendance in the public schools. States with a lower per capita income in relation to average daily attendance would receive more.

So, while nine states and the District of Columbia would receive $15 per child in average daily attendance in the first year of the program, Mississippi, the poorest state, would receive almost twice as much, or $29.67.

RECEIPTS WILL rise to reflect the expected rise in school enrollment over the next three years. In fiscal 1962 (from July 1, 1961 to June 30, 1962), California would receive $52,733,321, or $16.82 per child in average daily attendance in the public schools; in fiscal 1963, $64,- 313,909, or $19.16 per child; and in fiscal 1964, $76,414,133, or $21.37 per child.

The nationwide federal expenditures during the three fiscal years would be $666 million, $766 million, and $866 million, so California would get less than average all three years.

To receive the funds, the state's own level of school expenditures have to be maintained. In addition, the state must spend as much as the average for all states, after taking into account state per capita income and average daily attendance in its public schools, to receive the full amount of federal grants.

The federal college scholarship program would also be administered by the states. However, the federal government would require that winners be selected on the basis of competitive exams, and that ability and financial need are the only criteria.

THE SCHOLARSHIPS would last for four years and the yearly stipends would range up to $1,000, but would average $700 a year. Each scholarship student would choose his college, and the government would then give the school $350 a year to help pay the difference between the tuition and the actual cost of teaching the student.

Across the nation, 212,500 students would receive the scholarships over the five years. Total cost of each scholarship: $4,200 ($2,800 to the student; $1,400 to his college). Total cost of the scholarship program: $892,500,000.

Students in California would be eligible for 1,898 scholarships, worth $1,328,600, in the first year of the program. A total of 16,135 would be awarded in the state by the fifth year of the program.

Allocations were based on the number of high school graduates in California in 1958 aged 14 to 18.

What's Nixon Doing? Senator Battles Lobby

By CHAPIN A. DAY

Interesting speculation going the rounds in Sacramento these days concerns the future of Richard M. Nixon, like this:

1. If he decides to run for governor next year, he'll have to guarantee, as he has already done, that he would stay the full four-year term, thus eliminating himself as a possible presidential candidate in 1964.

2. If he runs for governor and is elected, he will have to campaign for the Republican candidate for President in 1964. But if he campaigns successfully, it would mean Nixon wouldn't have a chance of being the candidate in 1968 either, when the incumbent Republican President would have first call.

3. Thus the only way he could be governor and presidential aspirant at the same time, would be for the Republican candidate to lose in 1964. Nixon might find himself open to criticism of half-hearted campaigning if he deep down didn't want his man to win.

4. If he ran for governor and lost, it is probably the GOP wouldn't look too favorably on his presidential possibilities.

Conclusion: Nixon won't run for governor of California in 1962. Instead he will make a major campaign effort for Republican candidates up and down the state and in other states. This way he will keep his name before the public as the same time endearing himself to many of the men who will be delegates to the Republican nominating convention in 1964.

ONE OF THE MOST fascinating battles going on in the State Capitol these days is between a senator and a lobbyist.

California Teachers Association lobbyist Robert McKay and San Diego Senator Hugo Fisher have locked horns over McKay's lobbying practices and Fisher's legislative practices.

Trouble started when Fisher, a young, energetic newcomer to the Senate, was tabbed by Governor Brown to carry an education bill setting up a new credentialing system for school teachers. Fisher is vice chairman of the Senate Education Committee.

The CTA has been working for about five years on a proposed credential plan, particularly in the past two years with the Senate Interim Committee on Education, headed by Sen. Donald Grunsky of Watsonville.

CTA had Grunsky introduce their bill. But Grunsky is both a Republican and not in much favor with the governor's office at the moment.

Fisher's bill had one major difference, among others, from the CTA's. It required both an academic major and minor for the three standard teaching credentials. Teachers in special fields of education, like physical education, objected strenuously and in writing to Fisher and other legislators. Fisher has introduced some 78 amendments to his bill in an attempt to clarify its provisions.

Meanwhile, however, McKay wrote a column in the CTA Legislative Letter about Fisher's bill. In its effusive praise of the senator, it appeared to have been written with tongue in cheek. That's what Fisher thought, too. He indicated he thought McKay had called him "stupid."

Just at this time, the monthly reports of the lobbyists for January came before the Senate Legislative Representation Committee. Fisher is chairman. McKay's report showed an expenditure of only $175 and a few cents.

"How's that possible?" Fisher wants to know. "He runs an office, has secretaries, and publishes the legislative letter. All for $175?"

McKay says the letter is a house organ not intended to affect legislation — and he stopped sending free copies to all the legislators to prove it. He claims he reported all expenditures to affect legislation and the cost of his office isn't a part that needs to be reported under the law.

Thus far, Senator Fisher and McKay, probably the strongest lobbyist in the Capitol, haven't discussed the problem face to face. They had planned to meet last week, but Fisher was called to Washington. They'll probably get together Monday. Fisher's bill comes up for hearing again on Wednesday.

Land Restriction Is Un-American

EDITOR, Independent-Journal:

I understand that a new motion picture dealing with Communist tactics is entitled "Question 7."

I find that within our own county there is a "section 7" which is as un-American and as dangerous as Communism. I refer to and protest "section 7" of the property regulations for Fairhills as issued by the Marin Title Guaranty Co. This is baldly a restrictive covenant to eliminate Negro buyers.

Now we all will make a great deal of noise as to the evils of Communism and un-American activities, but will we say anything against such an un-American practice right in Marin? I submit this practice is un-American — does it not seem strange that while our Constitution allows us to protect our homes from search and seizure, some groups are barred from determining where that home shall be?

This issue is not one to be decided on the subjective basis of incidents or experience, nor is it to be decided on real estate "values," for there is a far greater value to be considered here—that of basic human right.

I submit that if the Marin Title Guaranty Company is allowed to continue this section 7, this restrictive covenant, it is a shameful indictment not only on this company, but on the people of Marin, who will gladly and loudly protest un-American activities in other lands, but who will not protest such activities as section 7 in their own county—perhaps, because the billfold is greater than conscience or because it is "safer" to fight terrors that are afar off.

Even while you're mired down in serious hassle over such things as garbage rates, someone is bound to toss in a little gem that trickles over the heated crowd like a breath of fresh air.

The other day they were arguing about the garbage ordinance in Larkspur. The higher the elevation, the more you have to pay because trucks and men have to work harder to get up the steep hills.

Suddenly, one joker from Heather Gardens pipes up: "Hey, I oughta get a refund. Heather Gardens is below sea level!"

A DEDICATED sheriff's deputy, whose specialty is to track down bad check passers, got a tough assignment this week. He got right to work, sniffed out the culprit, and found himself standing at his own door steps. His wife had overdrawn their account by $2.76.

Irony rode the car that killed a San Bruno man last Saturday when it rammed the highway fence in San Rafael. Among the fishing gear in the back seat was a book entitled: "How to Live 365 Days a Year."

CIRCULATING AT the state circulation managers meeting at the Alta Mira in Sausalito last Sunday was Ingrid Bergman in person.

D. L. Greeson, who used to be a mere deputy in the sheriff's office here until last year, is reported to be doing fine as police chief in Grover City, just south of Pismo Beach.

A MAN WHO drove with a suspended license told the judge he didn't need a lawyer—he'd fight the charge himself.

As he struggled ineptly against the evidence piled up by the D.A., two young lawyers in the courtroom jumped up in spontaneous defense of the man. About one hour and a couple thousand words later, the judge found him guilty. The man looked dourly at the two lawyers as if to say: "See, I told you I didn't need a lawyer. I could have got the same result all by myself—and faster, too."

IT'S NO FUN to see Soviet high jumper Brumel outdo our John Thomas in his space flights. But for one thing I'm glad. It does tend to dispel those rumors that flew right after Thomas lost out in the Rome Olympics — whispers of "too much night life" and "over-confidence." The Thomas-Brumel duels in this country indicates that Thomas was not exactly a slacker in not exactly a slacker at the Olympics. He was up against some good men.

MAYOR JOHN McInnis of San Rafael, who seeks re-election in April, is all ready for the races. Have you seen him in his "new" T-bird? It's a used car—one of those obsolete models they don't make any more.

So far, the mayor is unopposed. And it doesn't appear that any late entry will ever overtake him by April 10.

Should Hear Both Sides

EDITOR, Independent-Journal:

I am against communism—totally — absolutely — devotedly. But I am also against the new form of totalitarianism which shows itself in the closed mind and the unruly manner which is evident at almost any showing or discussion of the movie "Operation Abolition."

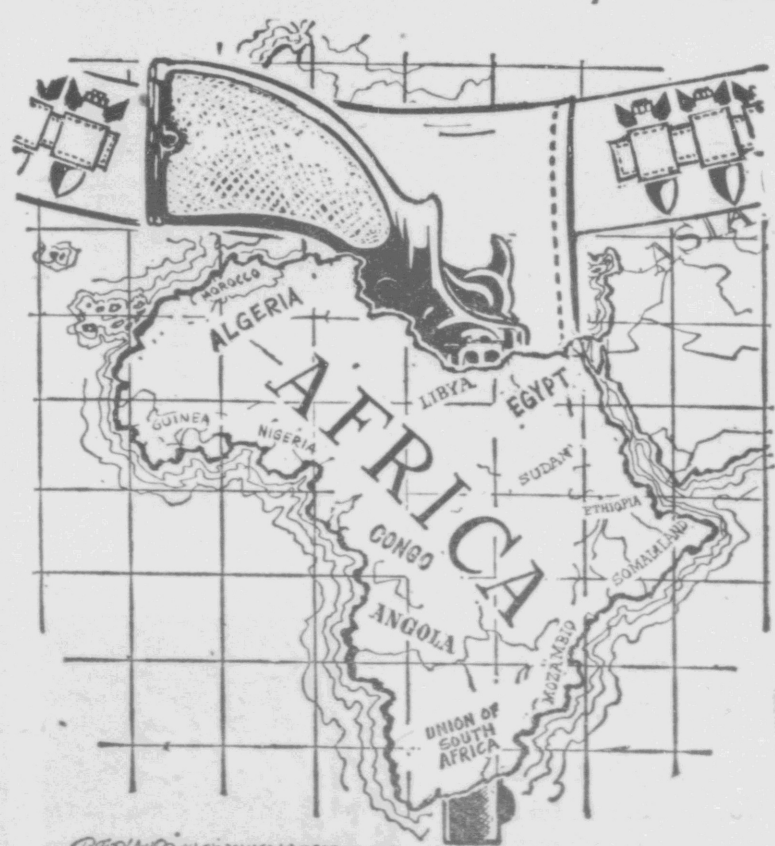

At the risk of being labeled a "Communist Stogie," I would ask Americans of Marin County to at least hear those who say there is "another side" to the film story. After all, orderly discussion is an American right and privilege.

Is not this disorderliness the same thing the movie supporters so detest in the mob action of the 1960 riots?

ELECTORAL REFORM

Q—In 1960 John F. Kennedy was elected President with less than a majority of the popular vote. In the past, this had happened (a) three times; (b) eight times; (c) 13 times?

A—(c). Among the "minority Presidents" were Abraham Lincoln (1860), Woodrow Wilson (1912, 1916) and Harry S. Truman (1948). Votes for minor party candidates or write-ins

ONE OF THE MOST interesting aspects of the Guide Dogs for the Blind Inc. program in San Rafael is the puppy testing work. Volunteers work with the puppies to determine their potential as future guide dogs. Here a German shepherd youngster walks "on air"—a criss-cross of wires while puppy testers watch his progress and grade him as to the sensitivity of his footpads and his ability to adjust to unfamiliar surfaces. You'll see more of these puppies undergoing other tests at the Guide Dogs for the Blind Inc. grounds on Los Ranchitos Road in next week's Marin Magazine.

Decorator Gives His Solution To Problem Of The Small Living Room

EDITING A special furniture edition has, naturally, brought us into considerable contact during the past few weeks with Marin's interior decorators.

We've been impressed with the creativity and ingenuity of these people. And we've also been impressed with the multiplicity of problems they tackle — and conquer.

What is the most common problem which frustrates the housewife and causes her to call upon the trained decorator for assistance?

Well, one decorator tells us that, in his case, it is the matter of the small living room.

Many a housewife has struggled with the problem of how to give her small living room a spacious look, then has given up and called in the interior decorator.

This decorator thinks the housewife has been tackling the problem from the wrong direction all along.

Efforts to make a small room appear large are frequently more harmful than helpful, he says. A better idea, he adds, is to approach the problem from the angle of capitalizing on the room's small size — in other words, to shoot for coziness instead of an illusion of size.

Giving away a few of his trade secrets, he says that this air of coziness and comfort can be achieved by:

1. Using lighter-colored upholstered furniture such as two seater sofas, perhaps on either side of a fireplace or large window.
2. Using warm-toned paints such as yellow.
3. Avoidance of too many colors in the room.
4. Dressing up walls with good decorative plaques or other wall art, and, perhaps, using a large mirror in a spot where it will not create decorative problems.

5. Planning of lighting to achieve restful effects.

6. And using wallpaper that is warm-toned with a small pattern so that the effect is restful and cozy.

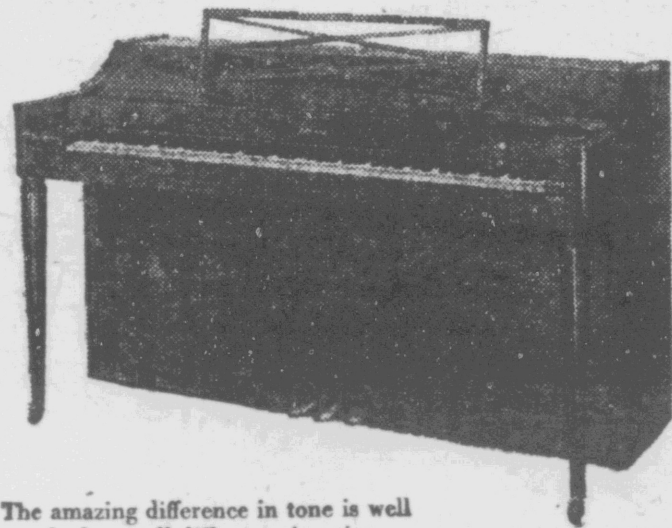

By such tactics the decorator converts the small size of the living room into an advantage instead of a disadvantage.

The futile attempt to make a small living room seem large is an example, our informant says, of a fatal error frequently made by the person who is untrained at decoration.

"A plan can be executed well and still fail if its basic premise is wrong and the end goal is impractical or unwise," he says. "The housewife would do well to make certain that she is traveling in the right direction before she begins her trip in home decoration."

The hint is, of course, that the services of Marin's decorators or the advice of its helpful furniture dealers and sales people might very well prevent such a basic error in home decor.

More and more Marinites are learning to take advantage of these professional services. No longer is the interior decorator's touch restricted to the mansions of the wealthy. In fact, the rich can afford to make mistakes and correct them. Those of us of modest means cannot. And it is the decorator's job to see that we do not make such costly errors.

The amazing difference in tone is well worth the small difference in price. Come in and hear what Baldwin's exclusive "Full Blow" action does to prove that the Acrosonic is, indeed, the finest of small pianos. Wide selection of styles. Liberal terms arranged.

The New Furnishings Link Elegance Of Old With Practicality

(Editor's Note: Your Independent-Journal Marin Magazine has asked one of Marin's leading decorators and furniture dealers George E. Lawrence, manager of the Lachman Bros. store in San Rafael, to bring our readers up to date on the new fashion trends in home furnishings. Here is Lawrence's summation of those trends.)

By GEORGE E. LAWRENCE

Elegance—that elusive word that evokes dreams of a forgotten way of life—is in the process of having its definition changed.

Thanks to the cooperation of home furnishings retailers and manufacturers, closely working with the nation's top designers and color consultants, furniture may now have that elegant feeling without the impracticality of bygone years. For this is furniture meant to be lived with . . . furniture with a great deal of simplicity . . . furniture that creates a calm oasis, allowing us to turn backs on a busy world.

Recognizing that American women are becoming increasingly more color conscious, the entire home furnishings industry is color-keyed, taking their cues from women's fashions. (Note the use of more and more deep purples, for instance.) To keep abreast of these advances, Lachman Bros. holds classes for decorator-salesmen, stressing the newest aspects of color harmony.

Another innovation being put into practice by Mrs. America is the trick of accenting moderately-priced furniture with a few highly-styled, and relatively luxurious accessories. American women have long used this technique in their personal attire, and the concept is no less effective where home furnishings are involved.

For instance, we had a Marin homemaker not long ago who purchased a moderately-priced bedroom group, then literally tripled its lovely good looks with a gorgeous custom-made bedspread in an elegant Chinese brocade from our Nettle Creek collection. Her net investment was small . . . the results—beautiful!

All down the line, the home furnishings industry is working to give its customers a greater range of color and design than ever before. Where once this was expensive, its acceptance by the consumer has enabled large manufacturers to contract for tremendous quantities of high fashion fabrics at greatly reduced prices. This, coupled with large scale carload buying by your large furniture retailers, results in Mrs. Consumer being able to get more for her money than ever before, inflation notwithstanding.

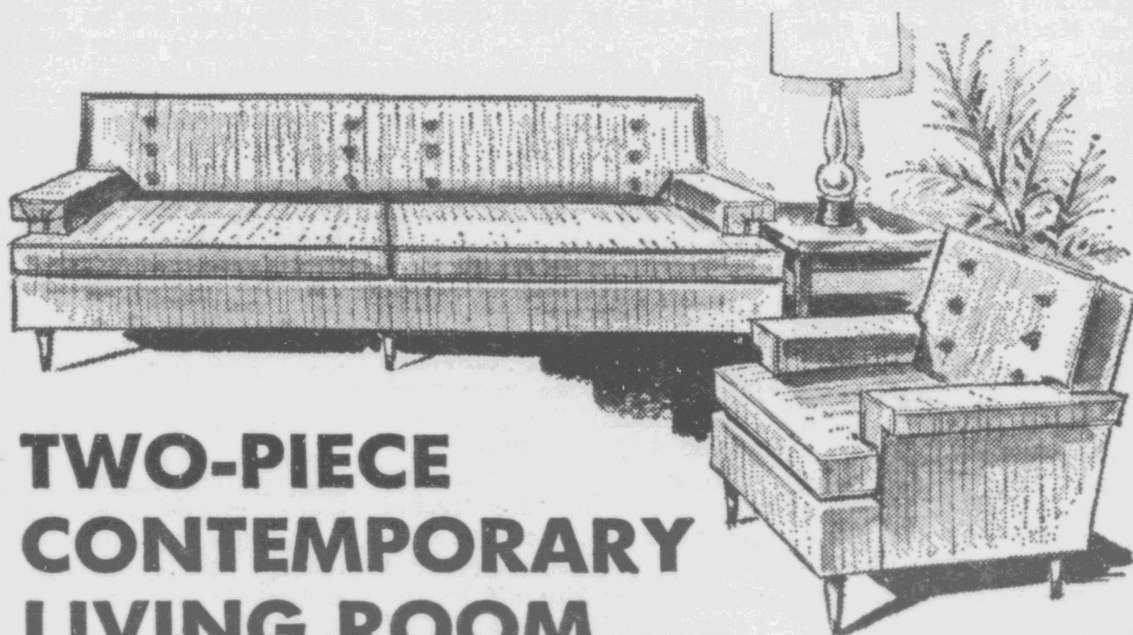

These particular values must be searched out, however. Production is not of a size to make nationwide distribution practical, and many areas of the country are not as receptive as the San Francisco Bay Area. Lachman Bros. merchandisers, for instance, travel over 41,000 miles each year to bring the latest designs to you.

THESE FURNISHINGS, says George E. Lawrence, manager of Lachman Bros. San Rafael store and an interior decorator, are illustrative of his report that the new spring furnishings and furniture combine elegance with practicality. Bedspreads are Nettle Creek in quilted patterns, the credenza antique ivory and gold with appropriate accent pieces. (Independent-Journal photo)

IT'S NOT SURPRISING that when Meyer Schwartz, his wife, Celeste, and his son, Milton, get together in their Casa Marin furniture store in San

Rafael, the talk turns to quality home furnishings. All three are interior decorators. Son Milton now manages the Casa Marin store while his father is in semi-retirement. (Independent-Journal photo)

He Likes The Furniture Business

By DON KEOWN

Meyer Schwartz has had only a grammar school education. But experience, diligence and a high ethical standard have made him a shrewd, respected and successful member of Marin's business community.

As a teen-ager, Meyer had to leave school to support his mother and her three children. His father, a cancer victim, was in failing health for a number of years, then succumbed to the dread ailment when his oldest son, Meyer, was 16.

As the family breadwinner young Meyer thus carried heavy responsibilities on his shoulders.

When his schooling was terminated by circumstances, the boy tried his hand at a number of jobs. Then at 16 he found his proper niche—the furniture business.

HE HAS BEEN active in that field ever since.

But to begin at the beginning with the Meyer Schwartz story:

He was born in 1903 in Pueblo, Colo. It was there he received his grammar school education, and it was there he first had to go to work to provide the family with a paycheck. He tackled a number of jobs—the major one a timekeeper's spot with a steel-mill—and he liked none of them.

Then in 1919 the family moved to Salt Lake City. And it was there that as a 16-year-old he went to work for the Broadway Furniture Co. He recalls the circumstances as these:

"Mother needed some furniture badly, and we didn't have the money to buy it. So she asked Mr. C. R. Sorensen if he didn't have some work I could do at the store he owned. He did, and I had a job."

Meyer remembers Sorensen with affection. "He treated me like a son," he says.

He also credits Sorensen with getting him off on the right foot in the furniture business. "He saw to it that I had a good foundation in the business before I started selling," Meyer says.

As a matter of fact young Schwartz put in a four-year training period in all aspects of the business. He worked with carpet layers, with finishers, with stove men, with the drapery installers, etc. He then put in a fifth year in the office.

Only then was he assigned to the store's main floor as a salesman.

THAT TRAINING period has been invaluable to him, Meyers says. "It put me in a position of knowing every phase of the business. When people talked about draperies, I could answer their questions. When they talked about carpets or business procedures, I knew those subjects, too."

Today new employees are unwilling to go through any such training period, Meyer notes. "They want to go to work selling furniture immediately." It is, he believes, both their own and the profession's loss.

The training period was not monotonous to young Schwartz. He found the furniture business exciting from the outset.

"It was the first job I ever had that I liked," he says.

Why did the furniture business appeal to him?

"Because," he answers, "there is nothing routine about it. Every situation is different. Every customer has a problem that is just a little bit different from the others."

Meyer spent eight years with Broadway Furniture Co., then at the age of 24 became manager of the Wilson Furniture Co.'s furniture store in Salt Lake City. He remained with that concern for four years, then in 1930 moved to Oakland.

"TRAVELING men kept telling me there were much greater opportunities in California, so I decided to find out for myself," he says.

His Bay Area career, however, got off to a rocky start. He was fired from his first job—for doing too well!

He landed the job with the furniture department of the Sears Roebuck and Co. store in Oakland. His remuneration was on a commission basis. And very shortly his salary was second only to that of the manager, surpassing that of supervisors and senior salesmen.

"My technique was to watch for new homes and apartment buildings going up, then make contacts with the owners or occupants at night on my own time."

After one year in which his commissions mounted steadily, the store's management decided it could no longer afford the hustling young salesman's "salary" and let him go.

Turned loose by Sears, Schwartz made his first business contact in Marin. He moved to Sausalito and became manager of the Langson Furniture Co., now Attell's Southern Marin Furniture Mart.

"I really didn't know Marin well at the time," he recalls, "but we had driven over here on weekends, and what I had seen of the county I had liked."

job with the Union Furniture Co. of San Francisco as manager of the San Jose store. With that chain he also managed the Oakland and Phoenix stores, then became supervisor of all its outside stores.

While with Union he first met Sidney Braverman, an employee of Union's San Jose store. And it was Schwartz who promoted Braverman to manager of that store.

Between the two men blossomed a friendship that was to become a business relationship a few years later.

Schwartz was with Union from 1931 until 1938. Most of those years were depression years in which the furniture industry was particularly hard hit. But Union's business volume climbed from half a million dollars to six million dollars during that time.

Schwartz then decided he wanted to go into business for himself. And he tackled the problem of selecting a site for his initial enterprise.

"My studies showed that the greatest opportunity was in Sacramento," he says. "But I had always loved the terrain and the tranquility of Marin. And so I picked Marin."

In 1938 he opened Schwartz' Home Furnishers in West San Rafael where Western Furniture is now located.

His new concern enjoyed a steady growth in business volume.

In 1940 he and Sidney Braverman became business associates and adopted the new name of Western Home Furnishers. They opened a second store in Vallejo, and Braverman verman served as its manager.

IN 1942 a third store opened its doors in Napa. In 1942 the locale on Miracle Mile where Braverman's stands today became the site of the firm's fourth store. No. 5 opened in Martinez in 1943. And later that same year Schwartz and Braverman opened for business still a sixth store, this one at Fourth and D streets in San Rafael and called Casa Marin.

The highly successful corporation was dissolved with Braverman keeping four of the stores (he now retains ownership of only the one, on Miracle Mile), Schwartz retaining Casa Marin and his original shop in West San Rafael. Later the West San Rafael store was sold by Schwartz to his employees.

At his downtown Casa Marin store owner Schwartz was plagued by one major problem—the shortage of parking space for his customers.

"It was apparent that we were losing business for this reason," he says. As a result he decided to build on a new site at 1654 Second Street, San Rafael.

The move was made in 1955 to the new building which had been constructed by A. Von Rotz, Marin contractor. The modern new building was unusual in several respects. It was the first building in Marin of 100-foot or greater width to be built without center supports. It was also, Schwartz believes, the first retail store in Marin to be erected by the tilt-up method. But, most important, it offered customers ample parking space.

SAYS SCHWARTZ: "All my experience in the furniture business went into the planning of the business."

For instance, all furniture is shown on one level.

"By then furniture dealers were beginning to realize that this was best," he says. "Furniture on a second floor simply does not sell as well as furniture on the main floor."

Today Casa Marin still operates at the Second Street location and Schwartz is well pleased with his choice of the site.

Casa Marin today specializes in high quality furniture including both U.S. brand names and European imports.

"We are the only Grand Rapids Furniture Guild dealer in Marin," he says with pride, explaining that the guild represents some 15 of the biggest names in furniture manufacturing.

After leaving public school in his teens, Schwartz did manage to crowd in some nighttime business courses in his younger working days. He has never, however, attended an interior decorator's school. But his years of experience have made him a proficient decorator. And he has the assistance of his wife who is a trained decorator.

An earlier marriage had ended in divorce when Meyer met Celeste, his present wife, in San Jose. She was then a decorator with Union's store in that city.

MEYER AND Celeste were married in 1939. And she went to work for her husband as head decorator in his new Marin store.

Meyer admits that their decorating tastes are not the same — "I doubt if any two decorators do have identical tastes."

But he respects his wife's tastes, and she respects his.

Their home at 1 Alpine Lane, San Anselmo, was decorated by Mrs. Schwartz in Chinese Modern.

Today Mrs. Schwartz does not work regularly as a decorator. But old customers still call upon her frequently to do jobs for them — and she obliges.

And Meyer can remember times in the past when Celeste's talents were vital to his business.

three or four years when my health was bad," he says. "She pitched in, handled the decorating and did a lot of the work at the store. She was a wonder."

Today most of the responsibilities for running the Casa Marin store rest on the shoulders of Milton Schwartz, Meyer's oldest son by his first marriage.

Milton is a San Rafael High School graduate where he was a star athlete, particularly in football. After high school he was called into service and saw World War II duty as a torpedo man aboard the Lexington. Out of service, he attended College of Marin at Kentfield.

DURING THIS time, Meyer recalls, his son had never shown any interest in the furniture business.

"I had no expectations that he would follow me into the business," Meyer says. "In fact, he seemed to dislike it."

To the father's surprise, Milton approached him one day, announced his desire to learn the furniture and decorating business so that he could work with his father at Casa Marin.

Meyer doesn't say it in so many words, but it is apparent that his son's decision made him a happy man.

And he doesn't hesitate to speak out in declaring that "I consider Milton to be today one of the finest interior decorators in Marin County."

Today Milton is also general manager at Casa Marin and the unquestioned head of the business.

"I'm about three-fourths retired," his dad says.

He adds that "Milton has done a dandy job as the general manager. I'm proud of him."

Milton and his wife, Mary, live with their three daughters and son at 222 H Street in San Rafael.

ON THE SAME street resides Meyer's daughter by his first marriage, Mrs. Frank Vanderbilt, with her husband and three sons. He is associated with the Von Rotz contracting business.

Still another Schwartz, Richard Michael, son of Meyer and Celeste, is currently preparing himself for a career in the furniture business. He is a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School where he was an all-league and all-county football tackle. At present he is a Menlo College student majoring in business administration. There, too, he has starred in football and is currently the student body president.

Meyer summarizes his business philosophy in this way: "I have always told our employees that they are to treat our customers in the same manner as they would want to be treated themselves. In other words, the Golden Rule policy."

"We have always sold dependable, courteous service along with quality materials and workmanship."

Meyer Schwartz has also passed along to his son a policy of participating actively in worthwhile community activities. For instance Milton is today a director of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce and is also a director of the Northern California Retail Furniture Assn.

Today Meyer Schwartz has two prime hobby interests. Dearest to his heart is golf. He took up the game in 1936 for health reasons. "In fact, it was my doctor who took me out to the golf course for the first time," he says. Meyer has learned to love the game. He is a 13-handicap golfer. And he plays about three times a week with the Marin Golf Club as his home course.

BOTH HIS wife, Celeste, and his son, Milton, are also golfing enthusiasts.

And Meyer is as proud of his wife's golfing prowess as he is of her decorating skill. "She only learned the game a couple of years ago, but already she is down to a 19 handicap," he says.

Meyer's second hobby interest is a ranch near Sebastopol which he owns and which gives him an outlet for his liking for carpentry and woodworking.

"I've virtually built the place by myself," he says.

On the ranch he keeps a few horses, then leases the rest of the land to cattle owners.

Thanks to the playing of his two sons, Meyer also enjoys watching football.

"But I'm not a redhot fan like Milton," he says. "He must be the Forty-Niners' No. 1 booster in Marin."

Phoenix is now the Schwartzes favorite vacation spot. "We used to go to Palm Springs, but we decided we liked Phoenix better," he says.

AND MEYER and Celeste are currently in Phoenix enjoying a five-week stay.

And a good part of those five weeks, you can bet, will be spent on the Arizona golf courses. And with son Milton holding down the fort, Meyer Schwartz will have no business worries as he putts for a birdie.

GOLFING IS THE favorite hobby of both Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Schwartz. Here they enjoy a chat with Kenneth Baker, the manager of the Marin Golf and Country Club

FINISHING YOUR OWN FURNITURE

One of the most startling developments in furniture circles in recent years has been the sharp climb in the sale of unfinished pieces.

The trend can be attributed to realization by the public that unfinished furniture is no longer of the "orange crate" variety.

In these photos Mrs. Richard Gladstein of 168 Palm Avenue, San Rafael, shows how she made use of unfinished furniture to get just the right pieces for one area of her home.

At left she has the aid of clerk Mrs. Elmer E. Laurence, as she shops for her furniture at White's Furniture in San Anselmo, specialists in unfinished furniture. Below, left, her furniture chosen, she goes to work, first sanding, and then, at right, applying the finish. And in bottom photo, in place in the Gladstein home's dining area, is the handsome built-in buffet and China closet.

Carpets: A 1961 Bargain

Homemakers shopping for new carpet this year will find that they will be able to buy "a lot of carpet" for their money. This happy report can be made from a preview of the new carpet styling being introduced for the new season.

Brilliant colorings, heavy textures and many elegant designs constructed into "healthy hunks" of carpet pile will be available at "pocket-book-fitting" prices.

The broadened carpet color spectrum developed during the past two years gets another boost in the 1961 offerings by the use of new, deeper pigments, and the clever use of textures to achieve unique tones and shadings.

"Texture for color's sake" describes the design techniques creating these subtle coloring effects. Handcrafted textures, swirling light looped designs, bulky curl-loops, "wood carving" ripple tones, wavy straited multi-level piles and long shaggy yarns—looped and uncut—are used to develop the new hues.

For example, a yellow-green dye used in tight, velvety pile glows a vibrant gold-green. The same dye applied to heavier, shaggy texture takes on a deeper olive shade.

The "texture artists" have even been at work on the familiar plush pile stylings. Several carpet mills have introduced small loops into an overall plush pile surface. This has resulted in a two-tone effect caused by the varying play of light on the "rough-smooth" texture. The carpet stylists, however, have not been content to create texture.

Keep These Objectives In Mind While Redecorating

If you are about to redecorate, keep in mind two major objectives. The first is to bring sparkle and interest to the home, and the second is to keep a look of harmony in the home. No matter how imaginative your ideas are, if they don't jell together the result will be unsatisfying.

For the unprofessional home decorator this often presents a problem. But, there is help at hand, and at no charge. Visit your local wallpaper store and take a look at the sample books there.

You will find in almost every sample book groups of coordinated papers that make a good starting off point for a decorating scheme. Two, three or even four papers are tied together by design or color or mood, or sometimes by all three.

A typical grouping might be a repeat design of a Colonial scene in light beige, brown and burnt orange, which could be used effectively in the hall; a small neat documentary pattern in the same three colors, which would look well in the dining room, and a simple embossed texture of beige with slight flecks of brown and burnt orange, which would be a good choice for the living room as a background for the many books and pictures.

This would give both contrast and harmony in three connected areas. Use these ready made schemes throughout the house wherever you have adjoining rooms to decorate such as bedroom and bathroom, or kitchen and dinette.

These matchmates are not new, but they are now to be found in the popular priced field in many attractive designs of fine quality. They bring unity and distinction to any room.

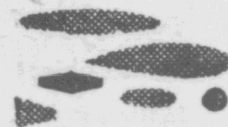

Where a room has no particular style, either because of different furnishings that don't blend too well or because of too many distracting colors, the use of these matchmates will do a great deal to tie in scattered effects and give harmony to the room.

Trained decorators know how to use what is on the market, and the do-it-yourself decorator too, should use all these built-in aids that are there for the looking. The job will be easier and the results better.

A FIREPLACE and comfortable furnishings provide the ideal surroundings for relaxation. Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Sereda and their 5-year-old daughter, Joanne, have just such a spot in the living room of their Novato home at 870 Sutra Avenue, and they make the most of it. New Lamps Put Stress On Variety Variety is the watchword in the new lamps and decorative accessories.

Traditional elegance tempered by a simplified, contemporary treatment is the general trend in lamps, but every design category is well-represented in the recent showings.

Out of one firm's 24 new table and floor lamps, about one half fall into this transitional category. This company, which specializes in wood-based lamps, is using walnut predominantly, with fruitwood and teak also shown. Pumice finishes with antique white and black included in the finishes are also popular with this company.

These bases are supplemented in other lines by cherry (for early American selections), enameled ceramic tiles, bronze, colored lacquers, and crystal.

Height still predominates in the lamp field, with a slight trend to more slender styling, to augment the greater delicacy generally noted throughout the new furnishings. Shades are usually simple, but some are made in leaf finishes, with painted detailing, or color accents. Blues, greens, purple tones, and pumpkin or golden shades supplement the basic browns, beiges and whites, colorwise.

A broad range of new decorative home accessories is being offered. Pillows and cushions continue good, particularly in jewel-toned silks, a natural complement to the more elaborate trend still in effect. Augmenting floor cushions is a new line of stack stools for extra seating and decorative use. Marble-topped benches are also being shown.

Walls are not to be left bare in this transitional era. A definite trend is noted toward larger pictures, with a long, horizontal effect important. Frames include walnuts, maples, and golds. One firm has brought out an entire new line of plaques, planters, and other wall decorations in deliberately transitional designs and finishes to mix and match the new furniture.

LIMITED SPACE can become a useful, pleasing bathroom vanity as illustrated here. Note how mirror and lighting have been employed for attractive effect. Counter and adjoining wall surface are paneled with Marlite plastic-surfaced hardboard in new marble pattern.

Storage Is Always Needed

Paneling Is Ideal For Creating Those Handy Built-Ins

Big home or little home, large household or small, there is hardly a family that can say it has adequate storage space. The lack may be general — from attic to the basement—or it may be confined mainly to certain rooms, such as kitchen, bathroom, or family room.

Lumber and lumber paneling are ideal for creating built-ins to correct the lack of storage facilities, for lumber will fit into any decorative scheme and it is economical and easy to work with. This is especially true of softwoods and some of the most readily available are the species that grow in the western pine region.

Built-ins naturally should be appropriate to the room. This sounds elementary, but it takes some planning and forethought to work out the sort of built-ins that will do the best job in a specific situation.

For example, storage space in a kitchen should be coordinated with work areas. Drawers and cabinets should be planned to hold heavy equipment below counters and cupboards to contain lighter items should go above. Consideration should be given, too, to space for mixers, toasters, blenders and other small appliances that a housewife may not wish to keep out all the time.

In a bathroom — even in a small one — there usually is space to box in the area under the basin. This will provide room for towels, extra soap and bathroom tissue, and perhaps also for bulkier things such as hot water bottles. If the bathroom is fairly good-sized, then cabinets may be built on the wall to hold these supplies, medicines and other necessities.

A family room, of course can provide storage space for myriad belongings. These may include movie and slide projection equipment, card tables and game supplies, hobby materials, and radio-phonograph equipment. Space also might be set aside in this room to display a collection of old china and glass, athletic trophies, or, perhaps, prized examples of photography.

The storage wall is another concept that works in many rooms and will provide a great deal of varied storage space.

It is most useful, perhaps, in a child's bedroom, where a wardrobe closet arrangement will hold both hanging and folded clothing, and drawers or even bins can be utilized for sports equipment and toys.

However, it can be used almost anywhere to advantage. These built-in units can be designed to cover a whole wall and will save space often occupied by furniture.

CHARMING INDEED is the living-dining room of the new Marina Gardens display apartment at 137 Canal Street, San Rafael, as furnished by Lachman Bros. The apartments, being opened this weekend, reflect the contemporary way of living and also serve as a showcase of the marvelous things which today's interior decorators can accomplish. (Photo by Ken Molino)

A New Showcase For Fine Furnishings

Marina Gardens Display Apartment Is Now Open

A display apartment furnished by Lachman Bros. of San Rafael as a highlight of the grand opening of San Rafael's new Marina Gardens Apartments at 137 Canal Street affords Marinites an opportunity to observe the newest and most effective in interior decoration and furniture.

The spacious apartment, almost as large as a small home, is furnished in a coordinated color scheme throughout.

In the living room, two arm chairs are upholstered with pumpkin-colored rough fabric. They flank a walnut table chest with drawers for storage. A gold-shaded lamp lends warmth to the arrangement. Opposite is a white brocade slim-lined sofa. White porcelain lamps have been placed on square sofa chests at each end, each of which has ample storage drawers. In front of the sofa is an octagonal table brought to life with an artificial arrangement of bright berries.

Gold and white drapes and gold and white carpets are furnished by Marina Gardens for all of their two-bedroom unfurnished apartments.

A round dining table of walnut seats four, or may extend to seat eight. A matching walnut server adds to the hospitable arrangement.

The appliances in the all-electric kitchen of the model apartment are in a pleasing shade of jade green. Other color selections are available. The pass-through from the kitchen is finished in mahogany formica, giving it a rich look to complement the furniture in the living-dining area.

Of unusual interest is the bathroom, whose rosy-pink fixtures are accented in purple, the new seasonal color, used in towel and accessories.

The master bedroom is furnished with a bookcase bed in the Scandinavian influence, an arrangement of three chests, an unusual mirror, and artificial Birds of Paradise arranged to give life to the room. On each side of the bed are three drawer chests with matching lamps in walnut. A small onyx table and pumpkin chair complete the room.

All through the model apartment, Lachman Bros. have made lavish use of artificial plants and flowers, so real you can hardly tell them from those picked garden fresh. They are mostly imported from Italy and France.

The den bedroom has as its focal point an entertainment chest. A comfortable armchair is upholstered in brown in a striped mosaic pattern. A small scale sofa is inviting in tones of brown and orange.

The Marina Gardens model apartment will be open daily for visitors. The apartments themselves, which include every modern convenience, also have view decks, patios, heated swimming pool and car ports with extra storage.

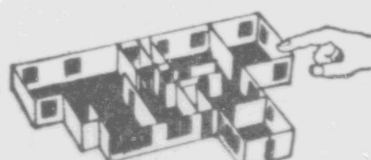

THE DINING ROOM TABLE in the Marina Gardens display apartment, can accommodate a cozy foursome, or can be extended to seat "dinner for eight." Note the pass-through to the all-electric, streamlined kitchen.

THE MASTER BEDROOM in the Marina Gardens display apartment has been furnished by Lachman Bros. in a contemporary feeling, making use of Scandinavian furniture. The rough-textured bedspread, bookcase, headboard, and interesting artificial flower arrangements, along with unusual paintings, furnish a pleasing decor.

ONE OF THE BEDROOMS in the display apartment has been furnished by Lachman Bros. as a den. The entertainment center is a novel piece of furniture which adjoins a comfortable chair for the man of the house. You're invited to drop in and see the apartment and its furnishings for yourself.

THE NEW EICHLER HOME of Dr. and Mrs. Mortimer Weiss in Terra Linda was given a Chinese touch by decorator Ed Smalle. The living room corner was equipped with the two swivel chairs and overhead lighting so that it could, with the addition of a table and two more chairs, be used as a bridge center. Fireplace is of cement block, and the decorative piece was fashioned from an old straw garden hat, pine boughs and tissue paper flowers. Room colors are natural wood, and off-whites. The wool rug is off-white. The teak table in foreground sits in front of the sofa. (Photos by Ken Molino)

A BOOKCASE was built into the wall, backing into the garage, in the living room of the home of Mrs. Erwin Treusch at 14 Los Alondras, Novato. Decorator Smalle used black and white striped ticking on the sofa to contrast with grey walls, grey rug. Drapes are also black and white. Blinds are of woven white wood, vinyl coated. The Victorian chair is emerald green. The built-in bookcase has been ornamented with picture molding.

THIS IS THE ENTRY into the cement block home of Mr. and Mrs. Jorgen Bald of 1041 Third Street, Novato. Walls are of natural wood, the tile floor of quarry red. The area accent rug of wool is in shades of beige background and white, blue and purple tufts. The ceramic planter is purple and the shelf is painted purple and white. Wall decorations were fashioned by cutting cement blocks in half and painting them white.

DECORATOR CAN HELP REGARDLESS OF SIZE

Should I employ an interior decorator to help me decorate my home?

That's a question many a Marin homeowner has asked himself.

But if the home is a modest one, the final answer has most frequently been "no." The homeowner is very likely to feel that the interior decorator's services are for the large, high-cost house—not for him.

This is, interior decorators will tell you, a fallacy. Their services, they say are as valuable in bringing out the best in the modest home as they are in a mansion.

They are winning more and more homeowners over to that belief, too.

For instance, Ed Smalle of Novato is a young Marin decorator who does a sizeable number of "budget jobs" for owners of less swanky homes.

On these pages he shows you some of the results of his work in Marin homes that vary from the $50,000 price bracket to a duplex.

Decorators, he says, give the same care to the small home that they do the large. They fit expenditures within the monies available. And they guarantee the homeowner the utmost value for his expenditures for furnishings.

There's no price tag on good taste, the decorators say.

HERE IS THE KITCHEN of the Jorgen Bald home also shown in photo at the top of the page. Again the walls are in natural wood, the floor of red quarry tile. Table top is of the same quarry tile as the floor, and curved to provide a break in the decor scheme. Cotton rug in foreground is of turquoise, purple, white and blue. Sofa is turquoise. Wall decorations are the same ones that appeared in photo of entry way. Note Swedish telephone on kitchen counter.

ONE OF THE MOST interesting decorating jobs undertaken by Smalle was the home of Mrs. Ray Hamilton of 1456 Grand Avenue, San Rafael. Shown is the bedroom featuring antique pieces. Walls are a light pink, drapes and French antique chair a dusty rose. Rug is in tones of pink, blues and rose with beige background. Focal point in the room is the authentic antique sleigh bed with Orlon fur bedspread (giving the appearance of a sleigh blanket). Pillows are lavender, pink and blue. While the small table appears antique, it is actually new. Lamp is Italian glass with a shell pink shade.

THERE'S A MASCULINE look to the living room of Robert Kuehml's home at 410 Ridge Road, as decorated by Ed Smalle. Walls of the living room are off-white, the wallpaper of the entry hall white on beige. Floors are teak-stained planks. The bookcase-hi fi equipment is also teak stained. Wool carpet is off-white. Two chairs are orange. Tables are walnut. The mosaic pieces on the wall were done on dark cork. Overhead the ceiling beams are teak stained, the boards between an off-white wash.

New Papers Have Look Of Country

The country look from many lands arrives in wall-papers to decorate American homes for spring.

To early American and Williamsburg-style documentaries are added French toiles, Spanish-influence design, and English 18th century floral, bird and foliage patterns.

Wallpaper accents elegance in damask and medallion patterns, 18th century English florals and 18th century French designs, often on simulated silk backgrounds for added richness.

Colors vary from dark and glowing to delicate and dainty. New dark backgrounds owe much to the colors of the Orient. Persian blues, rich reds, muted browns, tawny golds, terra cotta and deep blues are used as background colors.

Among the light shades, violets and misty blues lead. Sunny yellow comes to the fore.

Matching fabrics and wall-papers are widely available to bring a custom look to any interior. New wallpaper panels, relatives of the mural, but complete in themselves, can be used in many areas that are too small to take a mural.

VERSATILITY AND USABILITY mark this grouping of handsome mahogany furniture from Morganton's Tidewater Collection, as displayed at Dorothy Kell's in San Rafael. The pieces can be used in either living or dining room settings. The design is inspired by classic American pieces, but fitted for contemporary living. Chests, or "bunching cases," can be used in different arrangements, with or without the open hutches which convert into handsome bookcases. The hardware adds authentic flavor, and the fine mahogany finish has a deep and glowing lustre.

THE VERY NEWEST in design is evident in this elegant dining group featuring graceful curved lines in gleaming brass and deft filigree details, accented with multi-colored jewels. Table top is snow white Micalite with insets of brass. Chairs are gracefully sculptured and upholstered in long-wearing, ivory-tinted vinyl simulating the appearance and texture of fine silk, but so practical it cleans with only a damp cloth. You can see this handsome set at Braverman's in San Anselmo.

THE BEAUTY OF WOOD plus styling that blends the old and the new—that's Drexel's new Pan-Tempo Collection which can be seen at Casa Marin in San Rafael. Shown are dining room pieces from the group. Beautifully-matched walnut veneers and rich pecan solids are accented with inserts of quilted maple used in drawer fronts. The finish gives it the look of imported French walnut. The table top, highlighting the grain of the walnut, makes a beautiful setting for the finest tableware.

FLEXIBILITY IS the theme of this Thinline contemporary couch and chair at Clark's Sample Furniture Co. of San Rafael. Striking effects may be achieved by using the two together or separately in company with traditional or other contemporary furnishings. Simplicity of design and style make the group at home in den or study as well as living room. It's available in colorful fabrics or deluxe Naugahyde covers, all with reversible foam rubber cushions.

AS PART of the current decorative trend toward combining elegance with practicality, the old fashioned wardrobe or armoire is staging a comeback. This one, by Grosfeld House, is also a space saver. Only 30 inches wide, it fits between windows and in small bedrooms or dressing rooms.

The Trend's Away From All Trends

Home fashion thrives on color and variety this spring, with a deepening importance for elegance paralleled by growing popularity of the country look.

Perhaps the most interesting trend is away from "trends." Modern, traditional, contemporary, early American, English country look, Spanish country look—these, and more, all have their place in home fashion, and there is no rigid emphasis on any one style or way of decorating.

The homemaker, whether she works with or without a decorator, has free play in expressing her family's preferences through a creative, imaginative approach to decor. She may decide that home beauty and comfort can best be achieved through a combination of styles and designs—modern with traditional, for instance. Whatever her choice, the guiding rule is not, "Early American is very important this season," but, "Will my family enjoy this?"

The fact that furnishing or refurnishing projects are usually expected to endure for from five to eight years emphasizes the importance of expressing individual, personal tastes rather than following a passing whim for a particular style in furnishings.

In decorating colors, too, there is a stimulating range of choices. Whites, off-whites and earth tones continue much in evidence, and now they are joined by an increasing number of rosy tones, such as lilac or dusky pink. Turquoise remains a favorite.

Color is found not only in drapery fabrics, floor coverings and upholstery but also in painted wood furniture. More and more manufacturers are offering painted chests, chairs and other pieces as an attractive means of bringing color into a room.

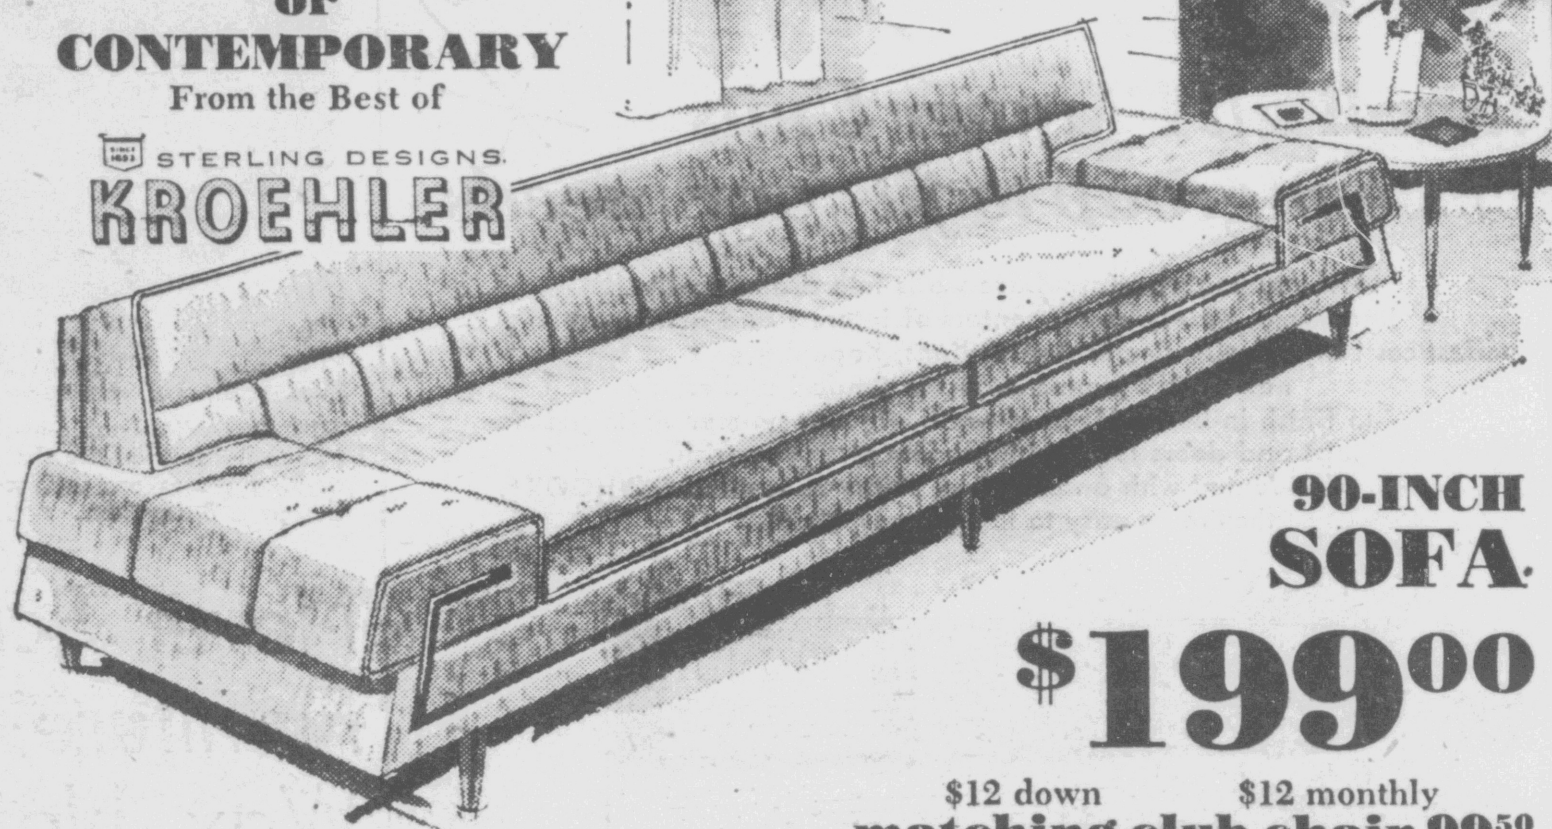

In the elegant look, color and fabrics play an important part, and so do upholstery materials. This spring, elegant-looking furniture derives its opulence not from added-on ornaments but from clean, graceful lines, luxurious cushioning and rich colors and fabrics.

The country look includes not only America's Colonial past, but English, French and Spanish influences.

Never Scrub Your Furniture; Use Wax, Not Water

The well-scrubbed look may be right for the small fry in your family, but don't scrub your furniture.

Many conscientious homemakers used to wash their furniture with their spring and fall housecleaning. Nowadays it's dry cleaning for well-kept furniture, with wax substituting for water.

Water can actually damage wood furniture, according to Lucile Bush, director of Johnson's Consumer Service. Water can cause the grain to swell and crack, and may cause veneer failure by softening the glue. Additional damage can be caused by the soap residue that is often difficult to remove and leaves the surface dull.

Daily dusting of furniture is desirable, and new pushbutton waxes will remove dust and develop a shine all in one. These may be used on all types of furniture, and materials used in furniture including wood, leather, Formica, porcelain, brass, vinyl and marble; for plastic countertops and wall tile, too.

Cheesecloth, diapers, flannel or wool cloths are recommended for dusting. Shun coarse or open-mesh material, synthetic fabrics or new cloths that may be sized or linty, Mrs. Bush advises. Never use an oiled or treated cloth on waxed furniture, as this will make it smeary.

Never let a damp cloth rest on a wood surface as it may damage the finish.

Don't Be Worried If Carpet Sheds

If your new carpet seems to be giving up some fuzzy fibers, don't worry about it. Shedding of loose fibers in the pile is normal, and doesn't mean that the carpet yarns are coming loose.

The fuzz will disappear with regular vacuuming.

It's perfectly all right to vacuum a new carpet right away. In fact, it should be done frequently in the first few weeks it's on the floor.

GO-TOGETHERS MAKE A BIG HIT

"Go-togethers" are favorites of the American woman for her own wardrobe, and now she is finding the same idea increasingly helpful in dressing her home.

Manufacturers get together to provide drapery fabrics and wallpapers designed to mix and match just as those indispensable sweaters and blouses, skirts and pants do. Even carpeting and other floor coverings are part of the pre-planning.

This season the idea is carried into upholstery fabrics. Several patterns and textures are offered in coordinated colors, plus appropriate accent colors. For instance, there are striped fabrics accompanied by coordinated plains, to match the stripes.

These home fashion go-togethers show a lively interest in color, with elegance favored in patterns from dramatic abstracts to authentic early American designs. Upholstery fabrics, soft and luxurious, are often enhanced by quilting and embroidery.

Elegance is developed through use of hues with a royal tradition—lilac, lavender and deeper purples—as well as pinks, turquoise, sage and avocado greens.

Pleasure In Fine Cabinets

The real source of fun at home is often television, stereo and radio and home movies.

Furniture to attractively house all these sources of pleasure is making a big splashy debut in the new showings this year. The furniture industry has made limited groups of cabinets previously, but this year there's a wider choice as to price and style than ever before.

Among the refreshing ideas are cabinets for TV which allow the viewer to watch without resting his chin on his chest. These new TV cabinets conceal the set when not in use behind handsome doors.

Many of the cabinets are designed as companion pieces to stand on top of matching units which house radio and or stereo. Both upper and lower units have doors which fold back flat against the ends of the cabinets. The TV set is fastened to a sliding shelf near the bottom of the upper cabinet. For viewing, the shelf is pulled forward, out of the cabinet. One such arrangement has a swivel so the set may be angled. This is a boon to pleasant, easy room arrangement.

Be Sure Your TV Repairman Is Qualified

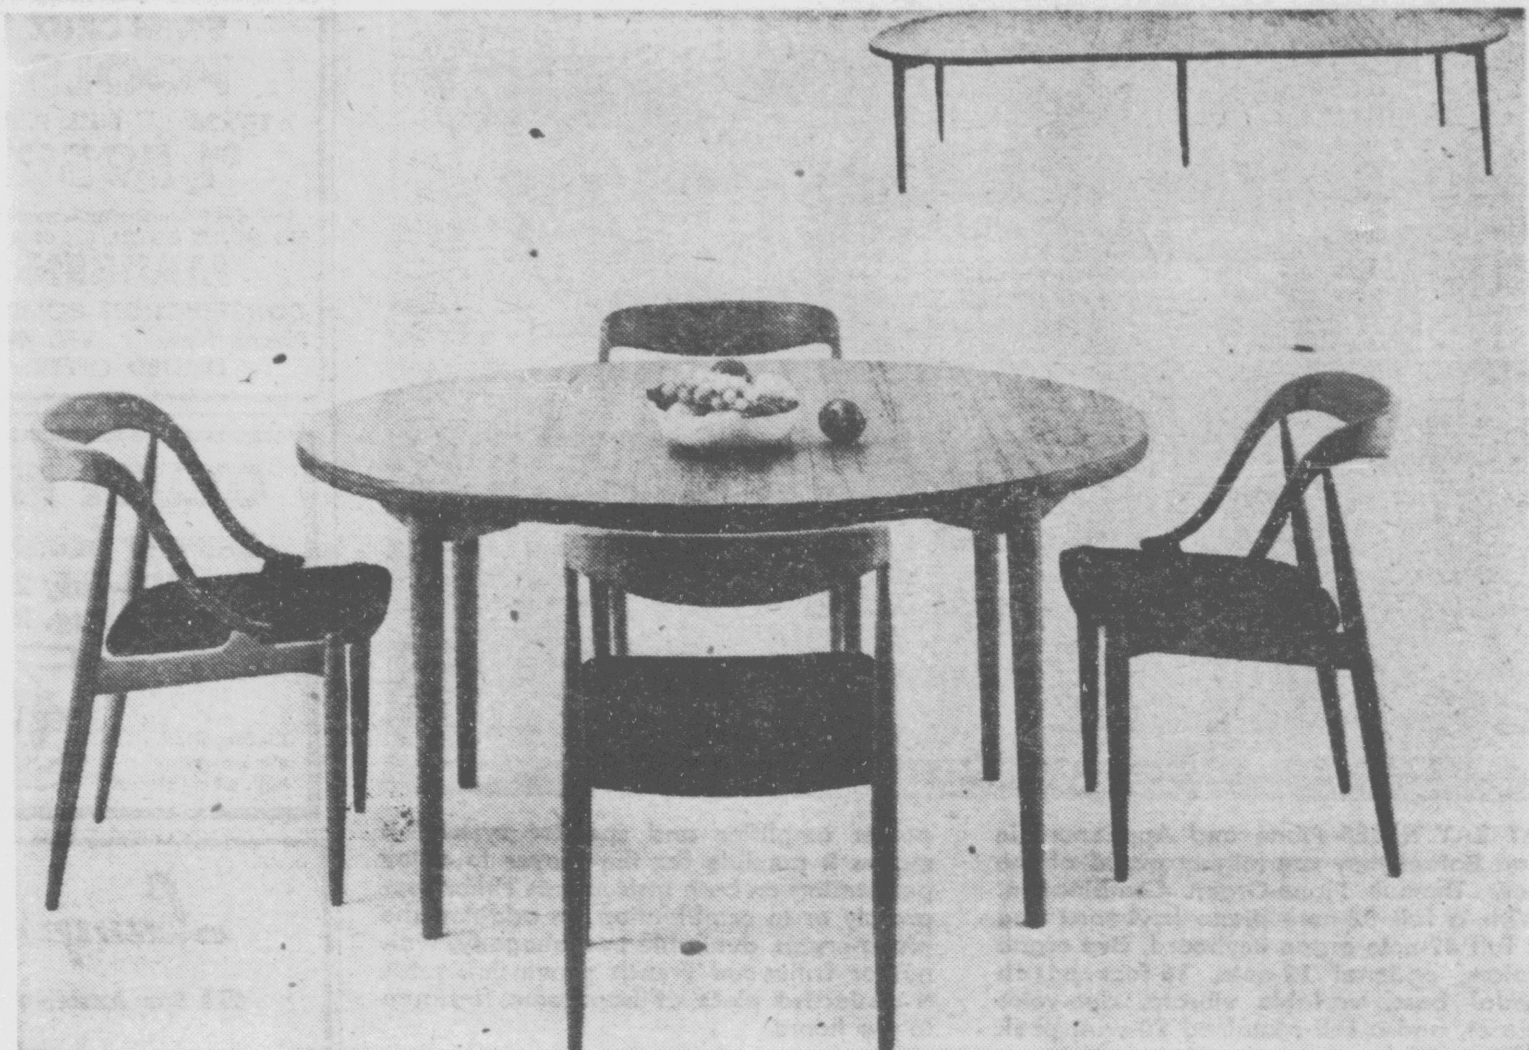

Many television sets today are being repaired—or rather, repairs are attempted—by men without sufficient background technical knowledge.

So Lionel Harwin, a partner in the San Rafael firm of Melody and TV, advises Marin television set owners.

Says Harwin: "A journeyman technician is one who has had at least four years of educational training in television and electrical serving. Yet over 75 per cent of those doing service work are not qualified journeymen."

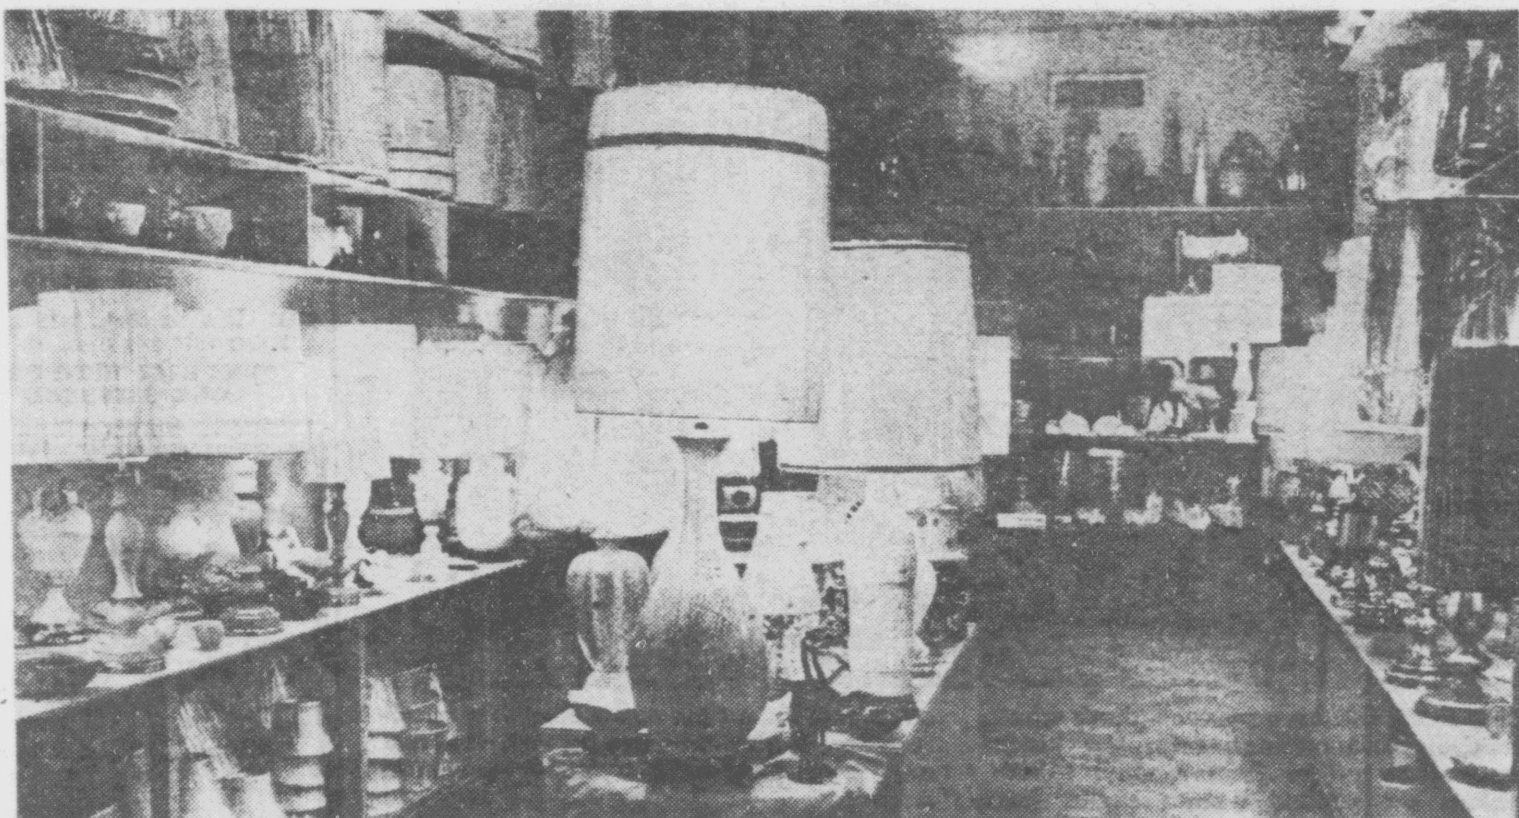

Harwin says TV owners would be wise to make certain that the men undertaking repair of their sets can prove their qualifications.

"Correct repairs are only as good as the person performing the service and the equipment employed," he advises.

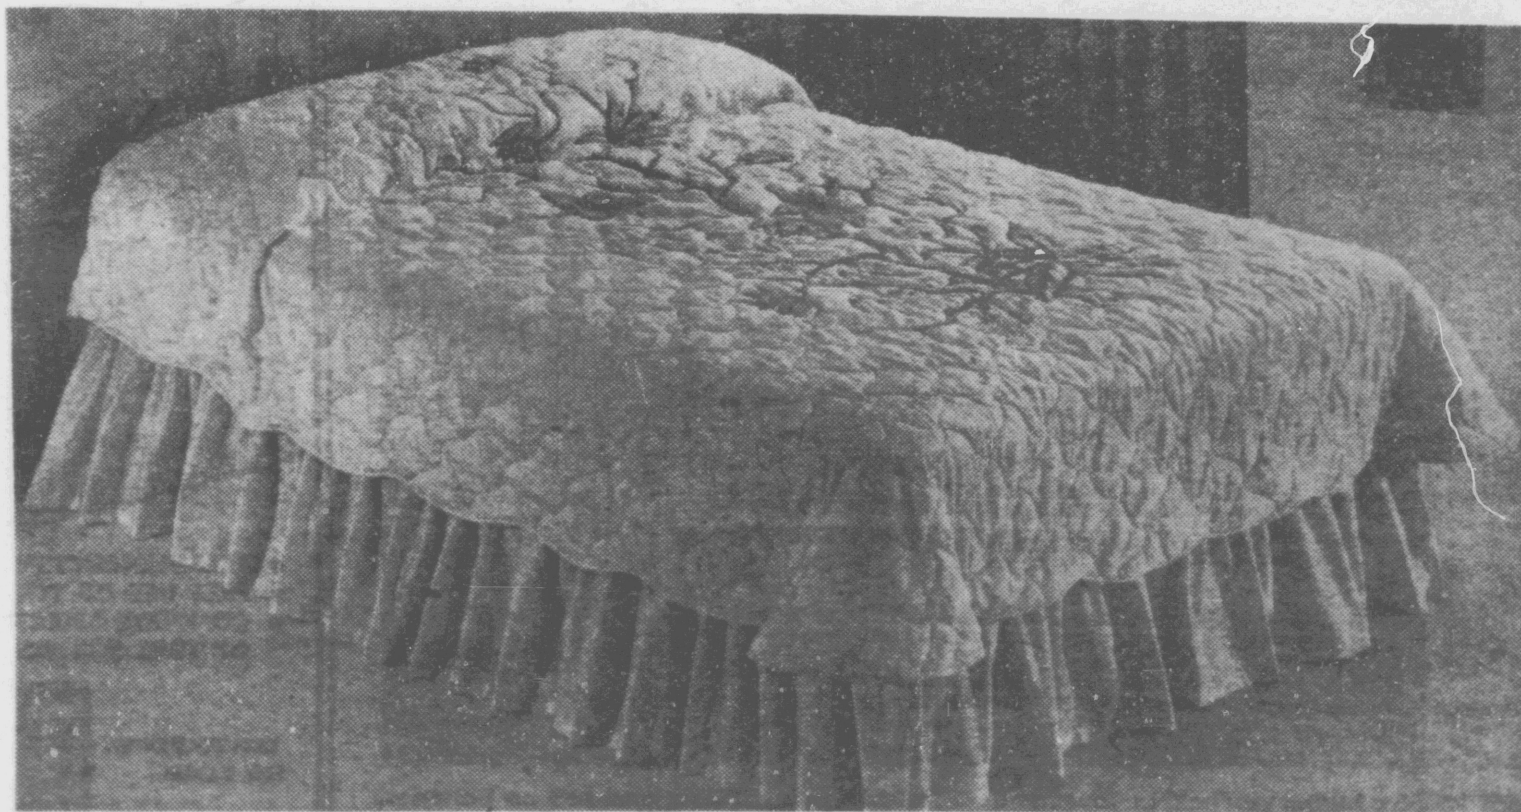

THIS OVAL TABLE, available in teak or walnut, is a Danish import and one of the shining examples of fine furniture at Bellach Furniture Co. in San Rafael. It's 47 by 55 inches, but has leaves that give it a 135-inch banquet size capable of accommodating 14 persons. Designed by Peter Hvidt and Molgaard Nielsen, it has a hidden center leg that drops down for additional support when table is fully extended. Chairs are sculptured teak or are also made of African Ramin wood.

THE WIDE VARIETY of selections available in both lamp bases and lamp shades make the lamp one of the most effective decorative pieces in the expression of individuality in furnishing a room. This is demonstrated by the pieces on display at Lamps and Things in San Anselmo, a concern which offers an added service—it will convert the customers' own bases into attractive lamps.

THIS MURAL CONCEPT in an elegant bedspread is called "Tree Lily," and is available at Trend Draperies in San Rafael. The firm notes that the increased use of dual and king-sized beds has created special problems for decorators. Another new style trend: Matching draperies and spreads.

BOOK REVIEWS

They Made The World Laugh

MR. LAUREL AND MR. HARDY by John McCabe, Doubleday and Co., 240 pages, $4.50. Reviewed by Don Keown.

This is a delightful book about two very wacky and wonderful comedians.

It is not really biography. Author McCabe prefers to devote most of his space to a study of the Laurel and Hardy approach to humor and to movie-making. The private lives of the two comics are of secondary interest only. And the details of how the pair and their colleagues went about manufacturing those sidesplittingly funny films are fascinating.

It is nice to note that McCabe is fully aware that Laurel and Hardy were more than just good slapstick comedians — they were artists in their particular field of entertainment, beloved to their millions of fans.

Both were great mimes with wonderfully expressive faces. And they were positively ingenious, especially Laurel, at inventing their own hilarious gags.

They were only a short step, if at all, behind brilliant Charlie Chaplin in the ranks of our all-time great comedians. And they were miles ahead of such more recent comedy teams as Abbott and Costello and Martin and Lewis.

McCabe makes an interesting point when he notes that their earlier, shorter films were generally superior to their later full-length features.

But everything they did was funny, with the laugh-provoking gags masterfully paced. If you don't believe it, just look at some of their old movies still bouncing around the television channels. We've seen most of them a half dozen times. And they still break us up.

NO PHASE of theater work is neglected by Dominican College's Troupers. For instance, here two members of the group, Meg Vasconcellos and Tish Rennis, are shown at work painting a set for one of the organization's productions.

LIGHTING IS ANOTHER aspect of the theater in which the Troupers gain valuable experience. Shown at work fixing the jells to the spotlights are Diane Phenix and Judy O'Brian. It's work—but it is also fun for the young thespians.

Troupers Learn More Than Theatrical Skills

Thespian Coeds Benefit From Sister Cyril's Wise Guidance

One of the most imaginative, most productive organizations on the campus of Dominican College in San Rafael is the group known as the Troupers.

A large measure of the credit for this energy belongs to Sister Mary Cyril, O.P., chairman of drama at the college and adviser to the Troupers since the student thespian group first took shape in 1948.

A creative, dynamic person, she sees as the goal of the Troupers not the distillation of future actresses but something of far wider scope.

She outlines that purpose in these words:

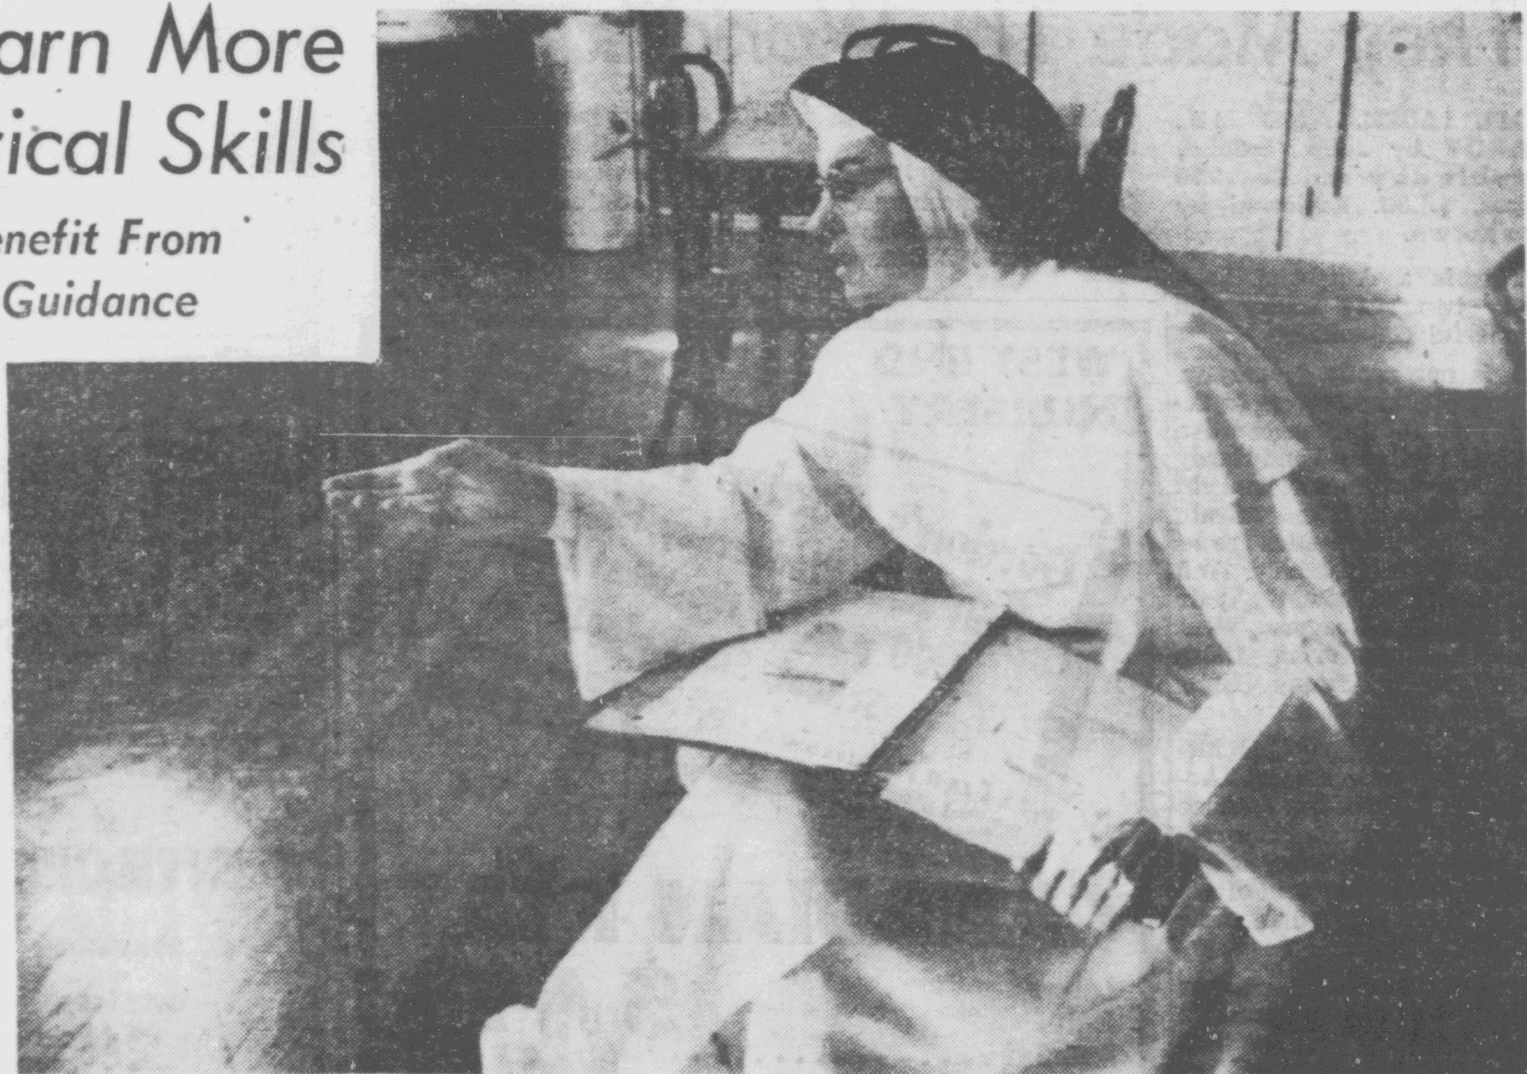

"TO TRAIN THE minds and sensibilities of students so that their creative and critical responses to the issues of living will be honest and brave."

And looking back, she adds: "I am confident that we have been and are continuing to do just that."

To pursue her goal, Sister Cyril has led the Troupers into a wide variety of dramatic, speech and radio experiences.

The group, which now has 48 regular members, began back in the spring of 1948 as the Radio Players and the first of a series of student-adapted, student-performed productions on Marin's station KTIM. At the time equipment had to be borrowed from the audio-visual department of the college. And production space was available only in the physics laboratory on the campus.

In 1950 the student producers and actresses were joined by the first male participants, thus making possible a considerable broadening of the holder of a master's degree in speech and drama. Drama, she believes, helps to alert students to the enduring values of life.

CHAIRMAN OF DRAMA and adviser to the Troupers at Dominican College is Sister Mary Cyril, O.P. She is a graduate of the University of Southern California and the

Sister Cyril remembers with a smile that the first two men to join the Troupers as honorary members — Johnny Clarke and Joe Laharty for "The Rivals"—have since become a surgeon and the director of recreation for the Archdiocese of San Francisco respectively. "Fine lads, both of them," she says.

The honorary Troupers come from the University of San Francisco, and from fraternal organizations, the professions and businesses of the Bay Area.

Their enthusiasm for and contributions to Troupers productions are equal to that of the coeds themselves, Sister Cyril says.

IT WAS IN 1952 that the Dominican group added a new dimension to its work and began producing stage plays with the same professional approach previously shown in the radio shows.

Today the Troupers can look proudly back on theater productions of every kind. On such presentations as "Twelve Angry Women," "Lute Song," "Murder in a Calais Coach," "Boy With a Cart" and "Sleeping Beauty."

And they can look forward with eager anticipation to their next production, a children's theater selection, "Cinderella and Her Magic Cat," to be seen next Saturday at 2 p.m. and the following evening at 8:15 in Dominican's Angelico Hall.

In 1958 the National Catholic Theater Conference extended membership privileges to the Dominican group.

The Troupers now present two major theater productions yearly on the campus along with their radio and speech activities.

Between plays they are engaged in a number of allied projects, some of them with a fund-raising aim that, it is hoped, will lead to a future little theater building. Fashion shows, cake sales, spaghetti dinners, a student-faculty address book have been some of the projects.

Early in the fall semester the Troupers hold a drama workshop at Long Sands, the Dominican College summer house at Bolinas. There they divide into interest groups—some design sets and costumes, some rehearse scenes for their coming production, others plan the publicity campaign for the play.

"The workshop last October was one of the most satisfying Troupers experiences I have ever had," Sister Cyril says, adding that Lynn Harri-man, vice president, was responsible for the flawless organization. (Jane Adam is the current president.)

WAILED SENIOR Patricia Rennie when the workshop was all over: "I wish I had found Troupers when I was a freshman!"

The Troupers have been hostesses to lecturers from other drama departments and theater groups. Not long ago Kenneth Letner, once an honorary Troupers and now director-manager of the Ensemble Studio in San Francisco, spoke to the students on morality in the theater. Last month Richard Glycer, San Francisco State College faculty member, gave a lecture-demonstration on the art of make-up. Later this month Dr. Paul Moses, Stanford speech professor, will speak on the psychological aspects of speech.

A Troupers production, like any other play, begins with casting. The usual auditions are held to fill the female roles. But men who have previously become honorary Troupers or have indicated an interest in participating are offered specific parts.

The entire production period runs but five weeks. And during the first three weeks it is "women only" as the co-eds study movement, character, interpretation of lines, and the staff resolves technical problems. During this period male members of the cast have learned their lines so that when the entire assemblage does come together for the final two weeks of rehearsal almost the entire time can be devoted to such details as pacing and the achievement of the proper depth through lighting and shadows.

The Troupers have been going through just such a procedure in preparation for next weekend's "Cinderella and Her Magic Cat" performances.

IF IT IS A success, the girls will tell you that once again the major credit belongs to Sister Cyril.

A University of Southern California graduate, she holds a master's degree in speech and drama. At USC she was active in campus productions.

Her talents resulted in an offer of acceptance from the famed Pasadena Playhouse, but she had other plans for her future.

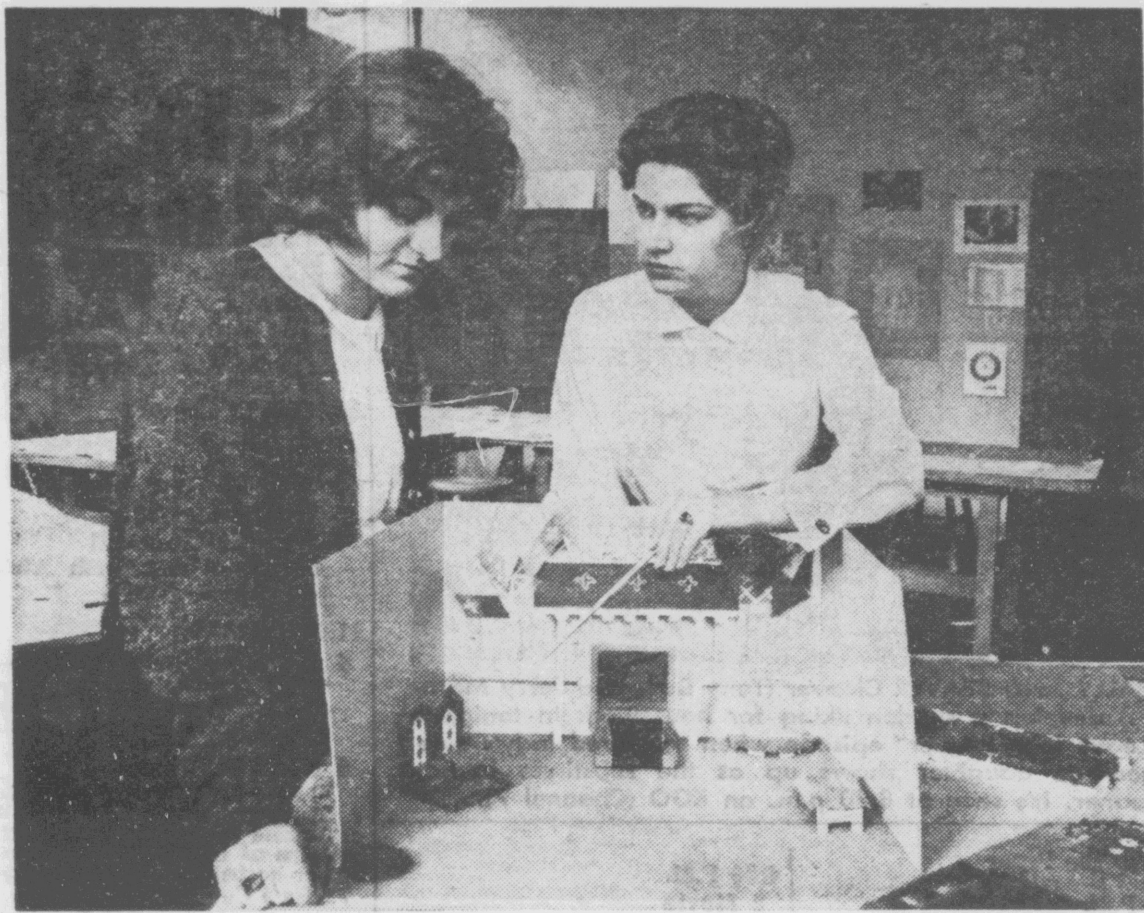

Her own experience and abilities qualify her to instill in her young students the varied skills necessary to make a theater operation function smoothly.

But more important is her flair for stimulating and inspiring her Troupers into applying the lessons they learn in their theater work to broader fields.

SHE LIKES TO quote Pope Pius XII from his "Miranda Prorosis" as saying: "The work of theater is to open a window upon the Infinite."

Apparently her girls have got the message.

Past-president Jane O'Farrell of the Troupers puts it this way: "Even more important than knowledge and experience to be had from our work is the spirit of unselfishness and unity which makes every endeavor successful."

A MODEL HELPS set designers Jeanne Wilson and Jeanette Dupouy of the Troupers work out some of their problems as they prepare for an upcoming production.

MAKE-UP is important to every young college girl. But to the drama student it takes on greater significance. Here Troupers Judy and Marge Riley practice with the make-up brush and materials.

THE WARDROBE DEPARTMENT is another unit that is all-important to the proper performance of a theatrical production. Putting the finishing touches on some costumes are Jane Adams and Lynn Harriman.

PAUL FORD, left, best remembered as the beleaguered Colonel Hall of the "Sgt. Bilko" series, will play a different kind of role in "Open House," the "General Electric Theater" presentation to be seen Sunday at 9 p.m. on KPIX (Channel 5). He'll be a sympathetic detective whose home becomes a stockade when hoodlum Elisha Cook, right, seeks sanctuary there from gangland reprisal. Robert Strauss will also appear in the comedy play.

San Quentin Inmates To Question Prison Chief On KPIX Program

AS THOSE who regularly watch the show know, KPIX's "Question!" presents a California public official who then answers questions fired at him by his constituents.

It's a sound idea, but hardly a startling one.

Next Thursday night, however, the question-and-answer formula will be given a novel twist. The public official on the "hot spot" will be Richard McGee, director of corrections for the state of California since 1954.

And the constituents who will question him: The inmates of San Quentin and Corona prisons.

The inmates with their questions will be recorded in advance on film and sound. McGee will then appear "live" from the KPIX studios to give his answers. The station says the questioning will deal with "prison philosophy and prison life." Which probably won't cover the one most convicts would like to ask: "When am I going to get my parole?"

Anyway, you'll see it at 10:30 p.m. Thursday on Channel 5. Jere Witter is the moderator, Marinite Ray Hubbard the producer.

THIS WEEKEND'S television's fare includes the first Brigitte Bardot movie to be shown on TV in the Bay Area, a world championship boxing bout, a sampling of avant-garde drama and a panel discussion in which representatives of Massachusetts' two most prominent families—the Kennedys and the Lodges—will participate.

Even those of us not enthusiastic about boxing can't help but get hepped up over a Sugar Ray Robinson-Gene Fullmer clash. It's such ideal casting with the flashy Robinson as the hero, the bull-like Fullmer the villain. They will be going at it tonight at 7 on KGO for 15 rounds or less with the world middleweight title at stake.

The Bardot movie is the J. Arthur Rank comedy made in 1956, "Doctor at Sea," with the sex kitten co-starring with British actor Dirk Bogarde. It will be shown starting at 7:30 this evening on KTVU, and will be followed on the same station at 9 by a repeat showing of "The Power and the Glory," the "Play of the Week" seen earlier this week on Wednesday.

Another movie on tonight's schedule is "The Ziegfeld Girl," a musical extravaganza of 1940 vintage with a bevy of stars including Judy Garland, James Stewart, Hedy Lamarr, Tony Martin, Lana Turner, Eve Arden and Dan Daily. It is complete with lavish settings and production numbers in the Ziegfeld manner. KGO will carry it starting at 11 p.m.

Sunday's offerings include a "The Great Challenge" look into "International Communism" at 1 p.m. on KPIX. Panelists will include Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy, GOP vice presidential nominee Henry Cabot Lodge, and educator-writers James Burnham and Robert Strausz-Hupe.

William Saroyan will pre-

BRIGITTE BARDOT
A B.B. movie tonight

side over an "Omnibus" show at 5 p.m. on KRON which will include excerpts from four avant-garde plays—by Saroyan himself, Edward Albee, Eugene Ionesco, Samuel Beckett. The Beckett drama, incidentally, is the much discussed "Krapp's Last Tape" with Myron McCormick starring.

LATER IN the week there will be three specials. On Wednesday one of Max Liebman's musical comedy spoofs will be seen at 10 p.m. on KPIX. Entitled "Private Eye Private Eye," it will poke fun at television's private detectives and will star Ernie Kovacs, Edie Adams, Hans Conried and Pat Carroll.

Thursday afternoon at 2, KRON will carry another of its serious Purex Specials aimed at women viewers. This one will probe the relationship of mother and teen-age daughter. Patricia Neal will star. And Dr. Leona Baumgartner, New York City commissioner of health, will be the guest expert.

Then that evening at 10 o'clock, KPIX will carry a "Face the Nation" debate between Senator Harrison A. Williams of New Jersey and American Farm Bureau Federation president Charles B. Shuman on the question: "The Migrant Farm Worker — Is Federal Legislation Necessary?" Viewers who saw the fine CBS documentary, "Harvest of Shame," earlier cannot help but be interested in this follow-up.

THE BAY AREA'S lone independent TV station, KTVU, marked its third anniversary on the air yesterday.

It also marked the close of its best year to date from the standpoint of performance and service to the community. As with any independent station up against network competition, the going is still tough. But KTVU can point with justifiable pride to such quality shows as "The Play of the Week," "Great Music From Chicago," "Paul Coates," "Doctors' News Conference" and "Editor's Forum."

There's room for much more improvement. But the movement is in the right direction.
